Nova Scotia Loses Half of Its Apple Crop

APPLES STREW GROUND AFTER WINDSTORM

Losses in Famed Annapolis Valley Are Estimated at From 50 to 75 Per Cent

Survey Made Of Orchards Areas

Damage Done Along Water Fronts of Coastal Towns; Small Boats Ashore

Halifax, Sept. 19.—To-day, as the result of a great gale at the weekend, a carpet of fruit lay in the orchards of the Annapolis Valley, one of Canada's most fertile and famous apple districts. The seriousness of the situation was emphasized in a statement given out by W. H. Chase of Wolfville, the valley's best-known apple shipper.

"The greatest calamity that has ever struck this valley in my memory has happened," he wrote. "From present appearances from 50 to 75 per cent of the entire apple crop lies on the ground. This has come when there was every promise of good prices to our growers and hope was high."

It was a storm of wind and rain that drove out of the southeast at the weekend and raked Nova Scotia's coastline.

SECOND IN WEEK
Just a week ago the province withstood a howling northeaster that took three lives, wrecked the gear of many fishermen and flung the apple trees of the Annapolis Valley. The latest blow cost no lives, but it unroofed houses and tied up communications, sank fishing craft, destroyed wharves and nearly completed the destruction of the apple crop.

Damage along the waterfronts of coastal towns was general. A wharf at Chester was demolished, and several small boats were washed ashore. The sea washed streets of Digby and swept over wharves at Lunenburg.

WIND IN QUEBEC
Montreal, Sept. 19.—Gales swept up from the Atlantic over the weekend, leaving a trail of destruction from the Maritime Provinces to Riviere du Loup, Que. So far as is known, there was no loss of life, although lives of fishermen were imperilled along the Atlantic Coast and it was feared later reports would show some had been lost.

Ottawa, Sept. 19.—The report of the royal commission on transportation and the remedies proposed by that body to cure it, possible, the idea of the railways of Canada will be in the hands of the government to-morrow. Under present arrangements a summary of the report will be made public at once.

It is a coincidence, therefore, that Saturday evening, at Salt Lake, City Governor Roosevelt of New York State, Democratic candidate for the presidency, set forth how he proposed to relieve the railway ills in the United States. The people of Canada will soon be able to place the two formulae side by side and compare them.

PREPARES FOR DEATH FAST

Gandhi, Determined to Start Hunger Strike To-morrow, Reduces Diet

Takes No Exercise at Jail Near Poona, State Guards Watching Him

Bombay, Sept. 19.—Mahatma Gandhi was on a reduced diet to-day and was abstaining from all physical exercise in preparation for his "fast unto death."

Having set to-morrow as the day to start his fast in protest against the British Government's plans for communal elections in India, the Mahatma has been preparing for the event for weeks. It was learned at the Tenda jail near Poona, where he is held, that he has been studying ways to extend his life as long as possible after beginning the hunger strike.

Search For Quebec Missing Girl

Canadian Press
Granby, Que., Sept. 19.—Police to-day were scouring the countryside for an automobile in which Pauline Comtois, eight, is believed to have been abducted at the weekend. The child was taken from the schoolyard of the village, some 20 miles from here.

Three persons were hurt, one seriously, in two traffic accidents here yesterday.

Billy Hanson, aged nine years, of 1728 Cook Street, was rushed to the Jubilee Hospital with severe head injuries after a mishap at the intersection of Cook and North Park Streets at 12:35 o'clock.

The lad was playing on the road when struck by a motorcycle driven by Robert Carlow, 1318 Ivy Street, according to the police report.

Dr. G. F. Aylward attended the boy in hospital and he was reported to have improved during the night.

Mrs. Ralph Lowe, Todd Inlet, and a friend, Miss Lena Burs, sustained injuries in a collision between Mr. Lowe's car and a Vancouver Island Coach Lines bus driven by Frank Whittin at the intersection of Yates and Quadra Streets at 9:20 o'clock yesterday evening.

Mrs. Lowe was badly cut about the face, and Miss Burs also sustained cuts from flying glass when the windshield of the car broke. They were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. Dr. J. H. Moore attending. Miss Burs later went home.

Mr. Lowe's car was traveling west on Ross Street, and the collision occurred as the bus, traveling east, turned to go north on Quadra Street, the police report stated.

U.S. SENATOR GOES ON TRIAL
New York, Sept. 19.—A jury was elected in an hour and fifty-five minutes to-day for the trial of United States Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, who is under indictment for allegedly violating the Federal lottery laws in connection with activities of the Loyal Order of Moose, which he heads.

Sign By-Law IS PROPOSED

New Measure to Go Before City Council This Evening

Regulations governing the erection and operation of all signs on buildings in the city are contained in a "Sign By-law" which will be introduced at this evening's meeting of the City Council.

At present the city has no legislation to control signs. Three years ago a by-law was introduced but did not pass.

The new measure, to be introduced under the name of Ald. John Worthington, is not of a stringent nature, it was explained, and will not affect any signs now erected.

Some of its main provisions are that all signs within the fire limits must be illuminated, except those less than twelve square feet in area, that a person with a fee must be secured for erection of signs, and signs must be erected to the satisfaction of the building inspector.

All signs will have to bear the names of the maker and the weight. They must not project more than eleven feet from the face of a building or more than one foot from the vehicular part of a public place. The maximum size for horizontal signs is fixed as seventy-five square feet, with an average depth of not more than five feet. Vertical signs must not be larger than 150 square feet and not more than four feet in width.

Other provisions govern safety factors, size of braces and also that all signs must be designed so that they may be swung back against the face of the building.

Germany's Threat to Quit Disarmament Congress Unfortunate at This Time, Declares British Government in Note to Berlin

Spokesman For Germany Disagrees

French Welcome British Declaration; Disappointment Voiced By Italian Leaders

Canadian Press and Associated Press Dispatches
London, Sept. 19.—The Government of Great Britain to-day was in a position very near that of France in opposition to Germany's method of demanding equality in armaments.

In a memorandum issued from the Foreign Office yesterday, the government insisted the German problem must be solved by negotiations and declared Germany's threat to quit the Disarmament Conference was "unfortunate at a time when attention and energy should be directed to economic rehabilitation of the world."

"Granted this question of equal status would have arisen before the Disarmament Conference concluded its work, there is a grave disadvantage in forcing it to the front at this stage," the note said.

GERMAN STATEMENT
Berlin, Sept. 19.—A government spokesman took issue to-day with the "unfriendly form" of yesterday's British note opposing Germany's procedure in demanding arms equality.

"It goes without saying," he said, "that we cannot accept the reasoning of the British memorandum according to which Germany of her own accord and without compelling reason raised a political issue of vast implications."

"The unfriendly form which clothes the charge that we proceeded in a manner tactically wrong and calculated to disturb the harmony between nations does not establish the truthfulness of this charge."

"This is an old question which has long been recognized by the people of all foreign countries as urgent. The English note is in striking contrast with English public opinion. It was not Germany which, out of a clear sky, forced discussion of this question, but the negative character of the resolutions which came out of the disarmament conference."

FULL EQUALITY
"Germany said nothing more than that complete and juridical equality of armaments was a necessary result from the Disarmament Conference."

He asserted no normal man could understand the juridical difference, as construed in the British memorandum, (Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

BIG MASSACRE PLAN IN INDIA

Canadian Press
Montreal, Sept. 19.—Unloading of the Danish oil tanker Aase Maersk, which came here with 9,000 tons of Russian oil from Batumi, on the Black Sea, was completed to-day. The unloading was carried out following receipt of a release order from the Department of National Revenue.

W. Haumann, captain of the Aase Maersk, when interviewed to-day on the progress of the Soviet Five-year Plan, stated Russia had not yet a sufficient number of native engineers and technical advisers possessing the training necessary to ensure the satisfactory progress of the plan.

Hat Ruined; He Asks Damages

Associated Press
Asheville, N.C., Sept. 19.—John H. Drummie has gone to law to prove a man's straw hat is nobody's business but his own. He said that just because he appeared in a straw lid after the close of the traditional season for such headgear, several lotteries and others called it "goat feed" knocked it off his head and broke it. He asks for five cents for the hat and $1.25 damages.

Premier Tolmie Decides to Finish His Work; Everyone Sits-Tight in Office

"Rough" Session of Legislature Looms, With Deal Over P.G.E. As One of Last Plays Before Election

Premier Tolmie is to carry on with his government just as it is until at least after the next session of the Legislature early in the new year.

Having failed in his "union government" move to get either T. D. Pattullo, Liberal leader, or W. J. Bowser, former Conservative premier, to come in under him, the Premier over the weekend issued a statement confirming the announcement published here last week that the Premier and his ministers were going to sit tight, and in office as long as possible on the plea to the public of giving Tolmie a chance to finish his work.

The Premier's newly announced programme followed the urgent advice of the majority of the cabinet. "Only two cabinet ministers were at all amenable to the idea of stepping down and out now, no matter for whom room was to be made. The others said plainly they did not see much sense in giving up office at this time when political and other prospects were unusually poor and when they still had several months to run. Their term of office does not constitutionally expire until July, 1933."

Wife Dies of Shock When Husband Slain in Manitoba Farmyard Battle

Man and Son Wound Animal and It Turns on Older Man

Canadian Press
 Emerson, Man., Sept. 19.—The swooping paw of an enraged and wounded bear brought death to Tanaka, a 30-year-old farmer, at Gardenton, thirty miles east of here, at the week-end, and a few minutes later his wife, overcome by shock at seeing her husband killed, died from a heart attack.
 Kawulla and his son, William, engaged the bear in mortal combat when the animal wandered into their farmyard with the cows coming in from pasture. They chased it up a tree and then attacked it with a knife attached to a long pole. The bear stuck to his heels and the son fired at him with one barrel of a double-barreled shotgun.

The shot blew out one of the animal's eyes and left a gaping wound in his head. Enraged, the bear dropped down and after the old man, the son tried to stop him with the other shot, but the cartridge proved a dud. The elder Kawulla tripped over a stone and the bear tore the prostate man's abdomen, killing him instantly.
 Mrs. Kawulla, suffering from a weak heart, collapsed at the sight of her husband's death. She died in a few minutes.
 When William went to the aid of his mother the angry bear leaped off into a swamp, where she was later found by a posse of alarmed farmers and killed. The bodies of the sixty-eight-year-old farmer and his wife, aged sixty-five, were buried together yesterday.

between the purpose of treaty provision and the conditions for achieving it. As for the reported suggestion by Premier Herriot of France that an international investigation be conducted of Germany's "disarmament" arms, the spokesman said:
 "Any German government would be shocked to be whipped like a manly dog if it permitted foreign powers to exercise such a right of inspection."
 The note was handed to the Foreign Office yesterday by the British ambassador.

WELCOMED BY FRENCH
 Paris, Sept. 19.—The newspaper Petit Parisien today said the British memorandum on Germany's demand for arms equality, issued in London yesterday, "contains a serious warning for the Berlin chiefs."
 It added the British note "condemns the words and gesture of Berlin more severely than the French note" sent in reply to the German demand last week.

ITALIANS DISAPPOINTED
 Rome, Sept. 19.—Disappointment was expressed in Italian government circles to-day over the British note on Germany's equality demands and there was a feeling the note contributed nothing to a solution of the situation. It was learned from authoritative sources.

NEW AGREEMENT
 London, Sept. 19.—The United Kingdom yesterday responded to Germany's demand for arms equality by proposing a new international convention which had no legal right to seek readjustment outside the World Disarmament Conference.

SURVEY MADE
 Kentville, N.S., Sept. 19.—Annapolis Valley apple shippers, fruit growers and government officials to-day were ascertaining the total damage done to Nova Scotia's fruit belt by Saturday's and yesterday's gales. It was indicated that at least 50 per cent of the crop had been dashed to the ground and the loss would total $1,000,000.

Men Who Shared in May Day Riots in Quebec Mining Towns to Be Sent Back to Europe

Canadian Press
 Quebec, Sept. 19.—Fourteen alleged Communists, convicted and sentenced for participation in May Day riots in mining districts of northern Quebec, are to be deported during the first week in October, when the sentences they are at present serving in Quebec jail will expire. It was learned to-day at the immigration buildings here.
 A decision to deport the men followed a lengthy inquiry held here behind closed doors, conducted by an immigration tribunal under the chairmanship of R. H. Monro, Assistant Commissioner of Immigration. The men all worked in the mining fields, were convicted and sentenced at Amos for their part in the demonstrations at Rouyn and Manawan. Several were injured in the riots, including the chief of police of Rouyn, who was forced to spend some weeks in a hospital.

Shelves Everything Until Next Spring

1. Reduction of the membership in the cabinet from the present eleven to eight members.
 2. Redistribution and a measure of reduction in the size of the Legislature to be put through at the next session of the Legislature.
 3. Reorganization of the government after the session on "non-party lines."
 4. A provincial election next spring after the session of the Legislature.
 5. The question of leadership to be left open until after the election. The Premier declaring himself "prepared to agree to the leadership being determined by newly-elected members should the proposed union government be successful at the election."

OPINION HIGHLY CRITICAL

In political circles to-day criticism was voiced of the determination of ministers to hold to their offices as long as possible, no matter what happened. It was asserted that when Premier Toole was placed in power after the election of 1928, there was no hesitation in running up the size of the cabinet to the largest in the history of the province so that as many party leaders as possible might participate in the honors and perquisites of office. Now that it is admitted to be essential that the cabinet be reduced, the criticism voiced to-day was that reduction could be effected with a similar lack of hesitation if there was an earnest desire to carry it out. Instead, every body is determined to hang on to office until the last hour and last dollar.

There was also criticism of the proposal that the union government to be formed should go to the country without a leader, as a sort of "headless chicken," as one critic expressed it to-day, leaving the leadership to be decided after the election.

It was pointed out that if the government were returned the matter of leadership would be obvious, as Premier Toole then could not be retired.

ROUGH SESSION COMING

At any rate, political observers see the province heading for a rough session of the Legislature next January. The government following the line of policy laid down by the Premier will seek to pass through its proposals, including a P.R.E. deal, with everything in a form as favorable as possible to itself, and then by trying to get some of the opposition into its fold to thus gain a measure of public endorsement for itself and escape punitive results of its acts.

Already the P.R.E. deal is beginning to loom large, with promoters, politicians and associates gathering in increasing numbers in the rooms of a downtown hotel here, where one of the proposals is being discussed. Notwithstanding opposition to the proposal, which has been published in many quarters, there is reason to believe that the government—no matter how it is—will try to ram it through the House. Hon. Wm. McKenzie in particular has been so much annoyed by the criticism of the terms of the proposal that he has come out with a trenchant reply in the government press.

BANDITS ASK BIG RANSOM

Associated Press
 Newchwang, Manchuria, Sept. 19.—Negotiations for the ransom of two British men who were abducted by bandits recently near here were renewed to-day following receipt of a letter from the bandits demanding a ransom of 700,000 Chinese dollars in addition to a quantity of ammunition and jewels.
 Previous attempts to ransom the victims failed because the bandits refused to believe the ransom money was genuine. Japanese authorities would prevent Japanese officials from executing them.

GOLD FOUND AT LAKE IN ONTARIO

Associated Press
 Sioux Lookout, Sept. 19.—After being marooned for three days without food, Ben Rouillard, veteran prospector, believes he has made a rich find of gold in the area near Woman Lake. Rouillard to-day had filed on seven claims.
 It was a weary and haggard prospector who staggered into the mine recorder's office here with word of what he claimed was the richest find in years. Rouillard is a short, slightly-built French-Canadian whose discovery, he stated, was entirely an accident.
 He had been paddling on Woman Lake when a terrible storm forced him

Much Spade Work Done, Says Hudson's Bay Head

On this aerial tour of the company's posts in the northern regions, P. A. Chester, general manager at Winnipeg; Ralph Parsons, fur trade commissioner, and J. Bartelman, district manager, the flight being taken from Edmonton, 700 miles direct north of that point.
 Hudson's Bay Company's first governor of the Mackenzie River Basin, Governor Simpson, who was in that territory 100 years ago, was not a governor in the full sense of the term, but in reality general manager in Canada. At the portage around the series of rapids in the vicinity of Fort Fitzgerald, Major Cooper says with keen interest the old allways and rollers used by the pioneer traders to run their canoes in and out of the water a century ago.
 It took the Hudson's Bay Governor just two days from Edmonton to visit the Mackenzie posts, where it would have taken his predecessors many weeks.
 Forty-eight hours after taking business over at the breakfast table at Fort Smith on the Mackenzie River, Major Cooper was having breakfast Sunday morning in Vancouver. Two hours later he was in Victoria, having taken the morning plane from Vancouver yesterday.

SOUTH AMERICAN TOUR
 Technically, Major Cooper's office is in London.
 Whenever he may be, less than two months ago he was dictating business correspondence on a steamer crossing Lake Titicaca, Bolivia, a lake two-thirds the size of Lake Ontario, situated far up in the Andes. He was then bound to Canada after looking over his railway interests in the Argentine.

Passing through Bolivia from Buenos Aires to Peru, he took steamer through the Panama Canal to Havana, Cuba, from where he took passage to New York, thence traveling by train to Lucerne in Quebec, where he stayed for a day or two before going to Montreal to take his Canadian tour.
 Speaking "non-party lines" in the countries, Major Cooper said he had found things in a serious way there, due to the unsettled political situation of the countries and the fact that the British Empire had passed through and what he termed the "chaos of foreign exchange."

DIRECTED IN CANADA
 Major Cooper has been governor of the Hudson's Bay Company for two years. He is the first Canadian governor to be appointed to the post of placing the Canadian business of the company under the direction of the Canadian committee, of which George Meakin, K.C., of Winnipeg, is chairman.

"The whole executive operation is now in the hands of the Canadian committee," said Major Cooper to-day. "I am more than gratified with the progress made since the new policy was initiated. For, despite the depression, the organization has made very real gains in the last year."
 The Canadian management policy conforms to the governor's view that the welfare of the Hudson's Bay Company is intertwined with the welfare of Canada.

"Not only does high taxation affect our properties, but it affects our customers," he said. "If the people of western Canada are able to dispose of their surplus at a price which is estimated at 467,000,000 bushels, it will rebound to the advantage of our chain of stores and to the advantage of Canada generally."

EARLY RISE
 Major Cooper is tall, lean, active, on the sunny side of fifty, with a commanding presence and natural military bearing. He was up at 7 o'clock this morning and off from the hotel to the store on Douglas Street to confer with A. J. Watson, local manager.

Governor Cooper is accompanied by P. A. Chester, general manager in Canada; F. A. Stapole, London manager of the company, and G. B. Macdonald, private secretary to the governor.
 Major Cooper and his party played golf here yesterday.

YOUTH LEAPS FROM PLANE

Associated Press
 Seattle, Sept. 19.—Police, guided by an airplane, to-day found the body of a youth, identified as Kenneth Deckard, nineteen, who leaped 1,000 feet to his death from the same plane yesterday evening. The body was found near a cooperative plant close by Boeing field.
 A note left by the boy, on the back of a campaign card, was found in the boiler room of a hangar at the field. It read: "Tell Bill and Phyllis goodbye. Goodbye, mother."
 The mother, Mrs. Emma Towler, said she had not seen her son, who had been out of work for six months, since last Wednesday.
 Fred Frank Whaley, who made a futile attempt to stop Deckard from leaving the plane, immediately landed his ship and summoned police.

Premier's Statement

under the leadership of the Right Honourable Ramsay MacDonald. It also is working very well and has created a stability that could not have been accomplished by any party system under present conditions.

While at Ottawa during the period of the recent Imperial Economic Conference I took occasion to consult many prominent Britishers with regard to what was being accomplished by the present National Government in Great Britain. They were all of one opinion, that it was the only way of meeting the conditions which prevailed, and the services being rendered could not have been accomplished under any other arrangement.

On my recent return from the east I found that a very strong sentiment had been developed here that party politics should be set aside for the present and all our energies concentrated for the best interests of the Province. After many appeals from all parts of the province and a very careful thought my statement of September 7 was made. I strongly believe that a Union Government could render very useful service in British Columbia at this time in coping with the depression and its effects on world-wide depression and which must still be faced by the government, in co-operation, if possible, with all other parties.

LEAVES LEADERSHIP UNTIL AFTER ELECTION

Realizing the seriousness of the present economic situation, the solution of which far outweighs any personal ambition or private consideration, I am prepared to agree to the leadership being determined by the newly-elected members of the provincial Union Government, be successful at the election.

The present is no time for a panic, but rather one when calm and deliberate consideration must be given to the problems confronting us. We must not be carried away by the extravagant statements made concerning the conditions of this province. While strict economy and careful administration are an absolute necessity, British Columbia is better off than some other provinces of our Dominion. It is interesting to note that British Columbia is a greater land than that of Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta combined, and our bonds are gladly accepted on the money markets of the world.

REORGANIZATION PROPOSALS SET OUT

With respect to reduction in Cabinet Ministers and in the Legislature, it is proposed:

1. To reduce the Cabinet from nine members with portfolio to seven with portfolio and from two without portfolio to one without portfolio, totalling eight instead of eleven.
2. Reduction of the membership of the Legislature compatible with proper representation for the whole people. Immediate reorganization of the Cabinet followed at once by a session of the Legislature and an election would not be practicable for the following reasons:
 1. A newly-appointed Cabinet minister who is not an elected member of the Legislature cannot occupy a seat on the floor of the Legislature.

2. To call and prepare for a session of the Legislature which require not less than twenty-one days.
 3. To prepare the estimates if supply were to be voted would require at least six weeks, and if supply were not voted at this session a further session not later than March would be necessary at a great deal of unnecessary expense.
 4. The duration of the session, in order to pass the redistribution bill and supply would in all probability require at least four weeks.
 5. In the opinion of the provincial electoral officer a further twelve weeks would be necessary to put into effect the adjustments in voters lists and other changes made necessary by the redistribution.
 6. It is thus apparent that the required time to bring about an election would bring us into the dead of winter season, when it is practically impossible to obtain a representative vote at many of the interior points of the province.

RAILWAY REPORT PUBLIC TO-MORROW

The report of the commission headed by Mr. Justice Lyman Duff of the Supreme Court of Canada has been quite extensively reported. On the subject of the railway report, the commission's findings are as follows: The report of the commission headed by Mr. Justice Lyman Duff of the Supreme Court of Canada has been quite extensively reported. On the subject of the railway report, the commission's findings are as follows:

The lay-out of the railway systems in the United States is very different from Canada's, but they are suffering from the same trouble—tremendously reduced traffic returns and in both countries this is to some considerable extent caused by the competition with motor buses and trucks. The United States has a great number of privately-owned railway companies which link up to form a network of lines from coast to coast. Canada has two transcontinental lines, one publicly and one privately owned.

The United States plan of a number of systems with comparatively small mileage was defended by Mr. Roosevelt as against transcontinental systems. A railway very largely owned by the state, such as the Canadian National, is a measure of success to the work of the man at its head and one manager could only look after so many miles with efficiency, he said. The human question came into the picture.

IMPORTANT TO CITIZENS

The Governor of New York took pains to build up an argument that would convince his hearers the welfare of the railways should be the concern of every citizen. In Canada, the Canadian National is owned by the people and the Canadian Pacific forms so great a part of the warp and woof of the life of this country, such an argument would not have been necessary.

INTRUDER KILLED BY GUARD ON Bowen Island Was W. G. Carlson

Vancouver, Sept. 19.—Identification of the prowler who was shot and killed September 7 at Hood Point, Bowen Island, Howe Sound, after breaking into the Bowaters' house, was made by J. P. of False Bay, Laqueti Island.
 The man, according to Mr. Williams, was William Gustav Carlson, forty-two-year-old United States citizen, who had lived in a shack at Squitty Bay, Laqueti Island, for one year.

Carlson was shot to death by Ernest Priestly, watchman and special provincial constable, whose attention was attracted by a burglar alarm in the Shields house. The intruder drew a revolver, and Priestly opened fire, three shots taking effect. The watchman was exonerated by a coroner's jury here.

OLD LAW FIRM IS BROKEN UP

Machray-Sharp Barrister Group Dissolved in Winnipeg; New One Formed

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Sept. 19.—One of the oldest law firms in Winnipeg, headed for the last thirty years by John A. Machray, K.C., has been dissolved. Breaking up of the firm of Machray, Sharpe, Parker, Crawley and Richardson came a few days ago, following the laying of charges of theft of large sums of money from the University of Manitoba and Herbert Archibald, former head of the firm, against Mr. Machray.

LUMBER TRADE STATED GAINING

Toronto Man Tells Ontario Lumber Retailers of Export Growth

Canadian Press
Windsor, Ont., Sept. 19.—The Canadian lumber trade is already feeling the benefit of the Imperial Economic Conference, A. S. Nicholson of Toronto told a gathering of the Southwestern Ontario Retail Lumber Dealers' Association in session here.

He told of one eastern Canadian concern that had secured a 12,000,000-foot order from Great Britain, and said other concerns had smaller orders. In August the exports from British Columbia exceeded the combined exports of Oregon and Washington states, whose lumber production was five times that of British Columbia, he said.

Describing the "behind the scenes" activities of the Ottawa conference, he declared opposition to an embargo on lumber from Russia had come from the British delegates, and it was found three of the five representatives of the industry were vitally interested in the British lumber trade with Russia.

NEW COMMITTEE RELIEF SCHEME

Saskatchewan Premier Expects Ottawa Will Pay Half of Direct Relief

Canadian Press
Yorkton, Sask., Sept. 19.—Fifty per cent of the cost of direct unemployment relief in Saskatchewan during the coming winter will be borne by the Dominion Government, Hon. J. T. M. Anderson, Premier of Saskatchewan, believes. The remaining 50 per cent will be shared by the province and municipalities. Dr. Anderson addressed members of the local branch of the Canadian Legion here at the week-end.

A new voluntary relief committee being set up would consist of about sixty members, said the premier. "In all probability there would be a representative from each constituency. An executive of twelve would direct the work of the committee. The premier hoped all relief in Saskatchewan could be handled by the committee and that it would not be necessary to appeal Ontario and other provinces, as was the case last year.

School Trustees Debate New Problems

Money Is Declared Not Supreme In Plans For Schools

Mrs. T. A. Barnard Delivers Presidential Address at Opening of B.C. Trustees' Convention at Kelowna

Canadian Press
Kelowna, B.C., Sept. 19.—"Social and economic changes now taking place demand new goals be set for education," said Mrs. T. A. Barnard, president of the British Columbia School Trustees' Association, in opening the annual convention of the organization here to-day.

"Revised curricula and courses of study must be developed for changing conditions over which we have no control," she continued. "Modern inventions have been responsible for profound changes in our industrial, social and family life. Their influences have been far-reaching.

"The conception that education as a preparation for life should remain constant is a mistake. It is a conception of education is needed—one that will give the pupil poise and balance in the midst of changes.

"School trustees," Mrs. Barnard added, "are charged with a certain trust or obligation—a trust of the inalienable rights of children of the school community. We must keep inviolate this sacred trust, and see the best possible facilities are afforded for the fulfillment of this sublime task.

DOLLAR NOT SUPREME
"In matters of child welfare the trustee must be for the child and not the dollar, and he must not always be influenced by suggestions as to how little the dollar can exist on."

"It is a retrograde step indeed if any trustee must seek support on paring education to the bone, and reducing salary schedules to a bare existence as we have reason to believe is being done in some of our rural districts.

"Neither should the law of supply and demand be taken advantage of, but rather how to confront youth in the schoolroom with first-rate specimens of manhood and womanhood.

"That is the only worth while stand for a trustee to take in regard to teaching."

Regarding the cost of education, Mrs. Barnard said the cost had risen mainly because there had been demand for higher education. "But what about cost of other things of less importance?" she asked. In business contracts and in public works at times there had been enormous waste, often invisible, behind the screen of their political value, she said.

Mrs. Barnard declared herself to be a great believer in adult education. "The question of a modified curriculum has been discussed in our joint meetings with the municipal committees, so that the student may reach junior matriculation at the age of sixteen years," she said. "It is obvious in this age of changing social conditions that our youth should not cease to learn when they leave school."

When the third balloon is sent skyward, it will be released by Lieut. Commander C. H. Bromley, Calgary representative of the service.

THUGS FRIGHTENED OFF
Vancouver, Sept. 19.—Returning to his home at 9:45 Saturday evening, W. F. Evans, 1144 Haro Street, discovered burglars ransacking the premises. The burglars, who had a quantity of clothing packed ready to carry off, abandoned their plunder and fled.

Mrs. T. Donahue, 1067 East Fourth Avenue, disturbed a prowler in her home at 9:30 Saturday evening, and caused him to abandon his attempt at robbery.

Trotzky Unable To Leave Turkey

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 19.—The Czechoslovakian Government has been informed its Consul-General at Istanbul is unable to obtain a visa for Leonid Trotsky, banished Russian Communist, for a visit to Bad Psteyn, Czechoslovakia, for his health.

Permission for a visit was granted recently by the Czechoslovakian Government provided Trotsky, who is an exile from Soviet Russia in Turkey, would not engage in political affairs.

RANCH OWNER KILLED BY BULL

Nelson, B.C., Sept. 19.—Attacked by a bull he was leading from a stall on his ranch at Erickson, George Cartwright, seventy-six, prominent rancher and stamman, was almost instantly killed Saturday afternoon. The body was found by his grandchildren. He had resided in the district for about thirty years and had one of the finest herds of Jersey cattle in the interior. He is survived by a widow and four daughters, Mrs. John S. Peck, Calgary, Mrs. H. A. McKown, Cranbrook; Mrs. D. McDonald, Greenwood, and Mrs. Frank V. Staples of Creston, B.C.

STRATOSPHERE TEST BALLOON TO GO UP

Third Bag With Instruments But No Pilot to Be Released Wednesday at Calgary

Canadian Press
Calgary, Sept. 19.—With two balloons released yesterday, preparations were under way here to-day for further tests of the rarified air belt several miles above the earth.

D. C. Archibald, Winnipeg, western superintendent of the Meteorological Service of Canada, said prior to leaving for Winnipeg yesterday evening that a third balloon would be released here probably Wednesday. On his way east, Mr. Archibald planned to visit the meteorological stations at Medicine Hat, in Alberta, and Swift Current and Moose Jaw, in Saskatchewan.

REPORTS AWAITED
No reports of the two balloons released last week had been received, said Mr. Archibald. It was too early to expect word of them to reach the Meteorological Office in Toronto, but they should be located by someone in either Alberta or Saskatchewan shortly. Instruments were attached to the balloons to record the pressure and temperatures existing between six and eight miles above the earth. Although it was possible they might soar to a height of eleven miles, he said, the likely altitude was between eight and nine miles.

JUDGE DIES IN TORONTO

Mr. Justice F. E. Hodgins of Ontario Appeal Court Succumbs

Canadian Press
Toronto, Sept. 19.—Hon. Frank Egerton Hodgins, a judge of the appeal division of the Supreme Court of Ontario and judge of the Toronto district Admiralty Court, died at his home here yesterday. He was in his seventy-ninth year.

Mr. Justice Hodgins had undergone two serious operations this summer, the second on July 18 last. He had been making favorable progress and hopes were entertained for ultimate recovery. An unexpected relapse came yesterday and he died a few hours later.

Before his appointment to the bench Frank E. Hodgins was one of the most successful of Toronto barristers. As head of the firm of Hodgins, Heighington and Bastedo, he enjoyed a large practice and his opinion was sought in many important cases.

BORN IN TORONTO
He was born in Toronto in 1854, a son of the late J. G. Hodgins, L.L.D., and a nephew of the late Mr. Justice Hodgins, Master-in-Ordinary of the Ontario Supreme Court, Upper Canada College and Trinity University contributed to his education. In 1879 he was called to the bar and in 1892 was made King's Counsel. In 1904 Trinity University gave him an honorary Bachelor of Civil Law degree.

From 1890 to 1896 he acted as legal agent for the Dominion Government in Toronto. As counsel for the Ontario Government he took part in the license investigation held in 1907. At one time he was solicitor for the Toronto Board of Education. The esteem in which he was held by his fellow lawyers is shown by the fact that he was elected, first as a Bencher of the Law Society of Upper Canada, and later as president of the Ontario Bar Association. He was the author of "The Life Insurance Contract in Ontario," a standard work on that branch of the law.

An Anglican in religious denomination, his activity in church affairs was almost as prominent as his professional career. He was at one time chairman of the Anglican committee of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. In 1908 he was chairman of the executive committee for revised hymnals for the Anglican Church in Canada.

He married Miss Anna Macklem in 1880. She died sixteen years later and in 1890 he married Miss Blanche Lockart. There are four daughters.

His favorite recreation was crossing the Atlantic and he visited Great Britain nearly every year. He belonged to the Toronto Golf and the Ontario Jockey clubs.

Associated Press
Asuncion, Paraguay, Sept. 19.—The Minister of War to-day charged Bolivian troops at Port Boqueron in the Chaco region with decapitating Paraguayan prisoners taken during the ten-day battle which has been raging there.

Denying reports of inhuman acts by Paraguayan troops, he said a Bolivian plane bombed a red cross hospital and riddled it with machine gun fire and that the Bolivians had used explosive bullets, mutilating bodies.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

Rancher Loses Life.
Nelson, B.C., Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press)—John Cartwright, rancher at Erickson, near Kaslo, was instantly killed Friday evening when a shotgun he was carrying discharged. There were no witnesses of the accident, but it is presumed he stumbled over a log while stalking a chicken hawk. A widow and three children survive him. He was dead when his wife reached his side after hearing him cry out following the double discharge of the gun.

MANHATTAN'S SHADE TREES
New York, Sept. 19.—It was a surprise to a lot of people, but the fact has been established Manhattan has 6,005 trees to shade its streets. That number does not count the trees in parks and on private land.

JOCKEY SERIOUSLY INJURED
Winnipeg, Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press)—Jockey Johnny Mulrooney, critically injured when thrown from his mount in the first race at Whittier Park Saturday, showed slight improvement in a hospital here to-day. The accident occurred when Mulrooney attempted to pass one of the leaders. His horse stumbled and crashed heavily, breaking its neck. J. Longdon, riding the horse immediately behind, was also thrown, but was allowed to leave the hospital after receiving treatment.

EDITOR DIES
Washington, Sept. 19.—Ralph A. Graves, fifty, associate editor of the National Geographic Magazine, a native of Bainbridge, Ga., died early Sunday of a heart attack.

OLD-TIMER PASSES
Vernon, Sept. 19.—Archibald G. Burney, seventy-four, a bachelor who had lived in Vernon and district for forty years, died Sunday morning in a hospital following an attack of peritonitis. He was one of the very well-known characters among the old-timers. He was born at Turo, N.S.

HOSTILITIES MAY END
La Paz, Sept. 19.—The Bolivian Government, in a note yesterday, said it would call an immediate halt to hostilities in the Gran Chaco region if Paraguay would agree beforehand to such action. The note was sent to the American neutral commission in Washington.

CONVICTION, APPEALED
Calgary, Sept. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Because he had obtained $180 worth of city unemployment relief while his wife was earning $60 a month, Dirk C. Swart was sentenced to five months' imprisonment by Magistrate H. G. Scott, Saturday. He was found guilty of receiving relief under false pretences. Counsel for Swart declared an appeal would be made at once. Swart's counsel argued a wife was not obliged by law to contribute in any way to the support of her husband or family. Therefore, counsel maintained, the man was eligible for relief.

MACEDONIANS IN TORONTO FIGHT

Political Factions Battle in Labor Temple; Eight Men Sent to Hospital

Canadian Press
Toronto, Sept. 19.—Macedonian political organizations here mixed in a wild free-for-all in which chairs, fists and even a knife were used, sending eight men to a hospital for scalp wound treatment. Two men suffered abdominal wounds. Rooms of the District Trades and Labor Temple, where the affray occurred late Saturday, were damaged to the extent of $150.

Police broke into the meetings after the fight had raged for twenty minutes, dispersed the 100 or more persons in the building and rushed the most seriously damaged to a hospital. Scores suffering from minor hurts escaped from the scene.

Outside the building a group of angry disputants gathered and Lazar Nicolova was stabbed in the back. His alleged assailant, Ivan Dimitroff, was arrested on a charge of wounding.

The trouble arose when the Macedonian Political Association accused the Macedonian Progressive and National Organization of being composed of Communists. The latter retailed by accusing members of the former body of being sympathetic to Bulgaria instead of working for Macedonian independence.

INVESTIGATION FOLLOWS DEATH

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 19.—Police of Vancouver, acting on a demand made by the man's wife, are endeavoring to clear up the circumstances surrounding the death of William N. McPherson, 2337 Napier Street, the body of whom was found in the Second Narrows, September 5.

An inquest held by Burnaby authorities resulted in an open verdict of death by drowning, but there were several unexplained circumstances in connection with the case. The chief of these was that the man was known to have had between $30 and $40 in his possession when he left his home a day prior to the finding of the body and but a small sum in silver was in his pockets when the body was found. This silver was in his left-hand trouser pocket, a place it would be practically impossible for him to reach, as his left arm was amputated above the elbow.

Vancouver officers yesterday discovered a citizen who was well acquainted with Mr. McPherson, and who declared he had seen the man in a heated argument with another at Hastings Street and Columbia Avenue some hours before his disappearance. This lead is being followed.

VALERA GOES TO GENEVA

Canadian Press
London, Sept. 19.—Eamon de Valera, President of the Irish Free State, paid a fleeting visit to London to-day on his way to Geneva to preside over the meeting of the League of Nations Council and to open the sessions of the League Assembly.

He saw no members of the British Government except an under-secretary from the Dominions Office, who greeted him officially.

As he left for the continent after breakfast at a hotel he was cheered by a group of admirers who had gathered at the Victoria Railway Station. He was accompanied by other members of the Free State delegation to Geneva.

ADVERTISE IN THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES

CANADA'S

Permanent Character

Head Office:
Montreal

There is iron and rock in the veins of Canada, as well as gold and silver. The stern and heroic qualities that conquered a wilderness and built a Dominion, united from Ocean to Ocean, still predominate in Canadian character. There is a permanency in this country that grows out of that character. It is expressed in institutions as well as individual craftsmanship and frugal industry.

The Bank of Montreal was the first permanent Bank in Canada. Having successfully co-operated with this country's people and business through the ups and downs of 115 years, the Bank today faces the future firm in its faith in the permanency of Canada's progress and the character and resourcefulness of the Canadian people.

THE EARLY REACTIONS TO GERMANY'S ARMAMENT ATTITUDE

A newspaper article on Saturday by M. Jean Fabre, a member of the French Chamber of Deputies, was among the first reactions to Germany's announcement that she will not participate in the Disarmament Conference when it resumes its deliberations, and that she proposes to commence building her third "pocket battleship." The article in question is called the French reply to Germany's demand for equality in armaments, and it calls for reoccupation of the Rhineland by French troops. "Germany has a religion of force," says the article, "but she respects force in others." Deputy Fabre then declares that there are two possible solutions for France—"to reoccupy the Rhineland alone, at the risk of war, and to remain strong, stronger than Germany is."

Saturday's article to which we have referred has been quickly followed up by the publication of the British and French notes to Berlin and comments on both of them from a German government spokesman. From Rome also comes a dispatch telling us that disappointment has been expressed in Italian government circles over the British government's attitude toward the subject of Germany's demand for equality in armaments. It is the method of Germany's demand which seems to have aroused the ire of both British and French governments. The official memorandum from Downing Street reminds Germany that her threat to quit the Disarmament Conference was "unfortunate at a time when attention and energy should be directed to economic rehabilitation of the world." It then goes on to say: "Granted that this question of equal status would have arisen before the Disarmament Conference concluded its work, there is a grave disadvantage in forcing it to the front at this stage."

It is reported that the British and French notes are very similar in tone; but that the British note "condemns the words and gesture of Berlin more severely than the French note," while Pertinax, the well-known French political writer, calls the memorandum sent from Downing Street "one of the best written and most closely knit diplomatic documents we ever read." In commenting on the British note, however, the German government spokesman—we are not told which member of the Junker ministry it was—says "we can not accept the reasoning of the British memorandum, according to which Germany of her own accord and without compelling reason raised a political issue of vast implications." He declares that "Germany said nothing more than that complete and juridical equality of her armaments status must result from the conference." On the subject of Premier Herriot's suggestion that an international investigation be conducted of Germany's "clandestine armaments," the same spokesman said: "Any German government would and should be whipped like a manly dog if it permitted foreign powers to exercise such control in Germany."

There is not much burning sympathy for Germany anywhere. The world is too near the events which occurred between 1914 and 1918 to forget some of the things for which that country will always be held responsible, apart altogether from the controversy of war guilt, and the impositions of the Treaty of Versailles—now virtually torn up. At the same time, it should be remembered that the signatory powers which effected Germany's reduction to an impotent naval and military nation contracted in that same treaty gradually but substantially to disarm. A little disarmament has taken place in the thirteen years which have elapsed since the end of the war; but the stark fact stands out—and it has been repeated time and again—that five billions of dollars are being spent annually on armaments, and the further fact that this amount is greater than was being expended before the war. It can not seriously be argued, therefore, that any real progress toward disarmament has been made.

In Germany's behalf it is being said that she went to the Disarmament Conference and asked the other powers to bring their armaments down to a level with hers. It would perhaps not be fair to say that some of the delegates listened to her spokesman as if he had taken leave of his senses; but it is now a matter of history that after many weary months of wrangling over the technical aspects of disarmament the delegates went home, and, as Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, the chairman of the conference, implied the other day, with practically nothing accomplished. What are the prospects for further deliberations, with Germany taking no part—and determined to arm as she pleases?

ROSS SOMERVILLE BRINGS GOLFING HONORS TO CANADA

Golfdom in Canada experienced a rare thrill on Saturday when the news was flashed over the wires that Ross Somerville of London, Ontario, had won the American Amateur Championship after a gruelling battle with a redoubtable opponent, Johnny Goodman.

When it was learned that Somerville was two down with nine holes to play to finish the thirty-six-hole match it looked anything but promising for the Canadian. But he overcame his disadvantage and ended the game two up and one to play. Thus he earned the privilege of lifting the trophy from the United States for the second time since the event was established as a permanent fixture as far back as 1895. The other occasion on which an invader won the championship was in 1911, when the veteran Harold Hilton, of Great Britain, and Fred Herreshoff settled the matter on the thirty-seventh green. In that year, by the way, Hilton also won the British Amateur Championship.

Perhaps the best tribute that could be paid to Somerville is that of Herbert H. Ramsay, president of the United States Golf Association, who said this morning: "Somerville's victory strikes a particularly happy chord in our international golf relations... it was a great match... I can say happily that since the trophy has to leave this country, it can be in no better hands."

Bobby Jones considers the victor of Saturday one of the finest match players he has ever met, and recalls the battle which he and Somerville had in the amateur tournament in 1930 and says "but for a lucky putt I got things to turn my way at Merion"—where the event was held that year—"Somerville might have beaten me there; he has all the shots and he knows how to play them." We may be sure, too, that Somerville had it in the back of his mind all the time that the redoubtable Mr. Jones fell before Goodman three years ago when the tournament was held at Pebble Beach. However, it was a fine battle on Saturday, with the issue in doubt until the last, the lead changing hands several times. So Canada salutes the first Canadian ever to win the American Amateur Golf Championship.

VERY MUCH BETTER TIMES AHEAD FOR SASKATCHEWAN

It has taken the province of Saskatchewan just one year to stage what Mr. W. L. McTavish, editor of The Winnipeg Tribune, calls a ninety per cent comeback. He says there are a dozen ways of figuring it out, but they all give approximately the same result. Here are some of the points advanced:

Last year one-fourth of the people of the province required government assistance. This year the number is less than four per cent and their relief requirements are comparatively light. Last year the government had to find $18,000,000 for relief, this year $1,000,000 will be ample. This spring eight million acres were seeded with wheat supplied by the government, next spring seed requirements will not exceed 100,000 bushels. Last year 87,000 families required relief. This year there will be 9,000 families, of which number 2,000 are families moved last year to the northern fringe of settlement under the government's $500 loan plan. They require a little assistance—not very much. The other 7,000 families are in the southwestern Saskatchewan area, mostly in a district which has had no crops since 1928.

Ninety per cent of the farmers of the province will be able this year to pay the current year's taxes, repay the government for seed, binder twine and binder repairs, pay all the expense of the year's work and have enough money left to live on until the next harvest and do next spring's seeding without assistance. Sixty per cent of the farmers will have money enough, in addition, to buy their normal requirements in the way of clothing and necessities and to make substantial payments on accumulated debts, if any.

The foregoing are only a few of the pertinent facts of the general situation in Saskatchewan. How matters have improved since last year will be best understood perhaps from Mr. McTavish's statement that "sixty per cent of the province is solidly prosperous; twenty-five per cent will get by nicely; and less than fifteen per cent will find the going at all hard." Here is an instance of a resourceful people taking advantage of Nature's more benevolent mood.

THE FLYING TANK

The Manchester Guardian

It is difficult sometimes to know whether to rejoice at the absence of the United States from the many conferences which the statesmen of Europe permit themselves or whether to regret their continued reluctance to attend. For look what a nice little problem the Americans could have brought to that gathering of experts which was recently tottering to determine the difference between an "offensive" weapon and weapons that are really rather high-minded and humane. Reuter says that an armored tank with wings and a propeller is now being built for the United States army—and what a merry time the armament experts could have had while deciding on the amiability (or offensiveness) of the flying tank!

Presumably the British view would have been that this instrument was a well-behaved little gadget that ought to be included among the possessions of every peaceful and well-appointed people. For the British experts decided that tanks in general only begin to be somewhat ominous and unpleasant when they weigh more than twenty tons; below that weight they are playful and peevish little things. Now the American flying tank, we are told, weighs only four tons—a mere toy, by British standards.

WANTED: A COBBETT

The Christian Science Monitor

At the present moment there seems need of a pamphleteer who can write on economics with clearness and force. Pamphleteers enough there are, and the future may appraise some of them as poets of William Cobbett in this field, but none so far stands out so conspicuously as did he. Though Cobbett may not have been the soundest of economists; he could pamphleteer—and in an English prose that of its kind has never been surpassed.

Cobbett had a long and turbulent career. He was sometimes right and sometimes wrong, but he faced adversity always as something to be dominated. It is hard to believe how deeply entrenched were the abuses, social, economic and political, against which he tilted. If to-day injustice and purlingness too often block progress, let us remember that Cobbett went to jail for an attack on slopping in the army. Hard may seem men's present burdens. But there have been harder, and this yeoman turned writer made himself the champion of the inarticulate oppressed. He did not always show a keen sense of good form, he fell much too easily into vituperation, he never seemed to agree with anyone for long, he spoke with a resounding and disquieting plainness, but he was the man for his time.

HAVE YOU NOTICED the ivy on the Empress Hotel this autumn? As usual, it is one of the sights that Victoria has to offer. Visitors rave about it, horticulturists give it lofty botanical names and explain that it isn't ivy at all, but the general public doesn't seem to pay any attention to it. The play of color on it from yellow to crimson, is a sight worth going a long way to see; worth even a walk across the Causeway, and the way it flutters in the breeze, the way the colors play across it, like ripples on water, makes you think that perhaps big corporations which operate hotels have souls after all. I think they should plant some of the same ivy on the outside of the Parliament Buildings which, in a few years, would be a much finer spectacle than they are now. Why should all the clinging vines and curious growths be kept inside the buildings when they could do no harm and would be so ornamental on the outside?

AT THE MOMENT a P.E.E. deal is reported to be growing inside. It is a deal which should be watched carefully lest it turn out to be a poisonous weed. I suppose a man risks his reputation as a patriotic citizen if he questions any scheme for building the P.E.E. to the Peace River, provided it does not cost the public treasury anything. Having little reputation to lose, I question it. Regardless of the terms of the deal, the fact still remains that in this country we have about three times too much railway for our population. Every railway in the country except the C.P.R. has fallen into the public hands, either federally or provincially, and the net result is a staggering loss on operation. We haven't begun to find a market for the products which can be produced in ten times their present quantity in this territory. We have in volume which we cannot begin to sell, every product to be opened up by the extension of the P.E.E.

AND DON'T FORGET that, no matter who builds a railway, no matter how definitely the government refuses to accept any responsibility for success, still, if the builders decide to drop it, the government must take it over and operate it. That has happened in every case in Canada. But, having failed to organize our already developed areas for the benefit of their occupants, having great unemployment amid plenty, and a surplus of everything, the temptation is strong to start building new productive machinery so as to keep ourselves busy until something turns up. On a vast scale that is exactly what has happened to our whole economic system. Instead of distributing the increase in production we have used it to increase our productive capacity until we have acute economic indigestion. We ought to be careful not to aggravate it.

NAMELESS POST writes that while my recent account of the meeting between Premier Tolmie and Mr. Bowser was adequate in a dull, matter-of-fact fashion, the occasion deserved something better. It deserved an epic, so, having worked himself up into an epic state of mind, the poet sends this:

"You're old, Mr. Bowser,"
Doc Tolmie cried,
"And your hair has grown quite white,
And yet to annoy me
You always have tried,
Do you think at your age it is right?"

"In my youth," said Bowser,
"I mastered this game,
And my heart still feels pretty stout;
While I never admit
Being in, just the same,
The fact is, I've never been out."

"If you'll take my advice,"
Said Bowser again,
"Your troubles will all disappear.
You may disappear
Also, but then,
What matter if I am still here?"

"It's true," said the Doctor,
"I'm only a vet.
Cow curing is my profession,
But I've studied the statute
And do not forget,
Nine parts of the law is possession."

"I hate to distress you,
But be a good sport.
The case is quite clear, beyond doubt,
However you argue
Or seek to distort
The fact is that I'm in and you're out."

"My duty's to stay,
I repeat it again,
And whatever may happen next year,
However mistaken
The voters are then,
At the moment I'm comfy right here."

ANOTHER GENTLEMAN, one of many, writes to protest against my notion that good old-fashioned business technique can pull us out of our present troubles. I shall not argue but, but Sir Arthur Salter says something in his great book, "Recovery," on this legend of the financier. He says bluntly that the great financial giants who were supposed to run the economic system with efficiency and intelligence don't exist. There are no such Olympians. "For the most part the (financial and economic) system has constructed itself from the separate work of specialists who built into the environment they found about them. Those who have made and worked this system have normally not understood it as a whole; those who have come nearest to understanding it, the academic economists, have not made it and do not direct it. The economic and financial structure under which we have grown up was, at the moment of its greatest perfection, more like one of the marvelously intricate structures built by the instincts of beavers or ants than the deliberately designed and rational works of man. Instinct works with a subtlety, a precision, an exactness, an ease, a regularity, that reason cannot rival, and with a practical success, so long as the environment in which it works is unchanged. But now our environment of social ambition and of industrial technique has changed. Reason alone can now correct what instinct has created. This, of course, is dangerous doctrine. It shatters one of our favorite myths. It suggests that the old methods of ordinary laissez-faire competition won't pull us out of the hole. I deeply deplore such revolutionary sentiments, particularly when they come from one of the best authorities in the world.

UM, UM, SAID the little girl from next door, munching just outside my window, apple very large, but not to-day all right, all right. We played kidnappers. You know what kidnappers are? Well, they nab kids, that's what. So we nabbed my baby brother and we took him right straight up to the big rocks in the woods by Mr. Pudbury's, and we pulled him up the rocks as quick as we could, because he was very heavy and we didn't hurt him any more than we had to. So then we found a nice little quiet place, with moss and grass all around, and there was a little hole in the rocks there, so we all lay down in it and waited for a long, long time. After a while my mummy she came out to find my baby brother and she couldn't find him. She called and called. My daddy called and called. Mr. Pudbury he called and called as loud as a cow calls when it's hungry, and Mr. Beak he called, but not so loud, and we could hear Mrs. Glumby say to my mummy that probably we had been run over on the road or murdered or something like that. But we didn't say anything and they couldn't find us. And when my baby brother tried to cry out we put our hands over his mouth, gently and nice, so we didn't hurt him, no much. We stayed there a long time, and everybody was running around and yelling like mad and making a big fuss. We laughed, but not too loud. Then what d'you suppose?

My dog, Nipper, he came running through the woods, with his nose as hard as he could, and he followed us right up to the top of the rocks and found us there, and he started to bark and wag his tail. So then Mr. Pudbury he came up, too, and my mummy and all of them, and they took the baby away with them. They seemed pretty mad about something and locked me in the play-yard. But I didn't care 'cause there's lots of apples in there and a nice hole through the fence where I can crawl out of when I want to.

INDIAN FACES TRIAL AT VERNON

Vernon, B.C., Sept. 19.—Louis Victor, an Indian, said to have been crazed with drink, was in the hands of police to-day following an affray in which he is alleged to have run amok and stabbed four persons with a penknife before he was subdued. Two Indian women, Octave McDougall and Martha Louis, were taken to a hospital with knife wounds, but were able to leave soon afterward. Two men, Ivan Crozier and George Ward, suffered superficial cuts on hands and arms. Victor started the rampage at the west end of Barnard Avenue, near where Indians customarily tie their ponies. Previously the man had a good record. The affair occurred late Saturday night.

TELLS VALUE OF COAST ROAD

C. L. Harrison, in Address at
James Bay Church, Stresses
Importance of West Coast

In an address before a large audience at the James Bay United Church Friday evening, C. L. Harrison stressed the advisability of opening the West Coast Road for tourists. The address was illustrated by colored lantern slides and motion pictures of the various scenic spots on Vancouver Island. Pictures of the West Coast from Jordan River to Barkley Sound were shown by Mr. Harrison, who stated that here was a paradise for tourists which would bring unlimited revenue when it was opened up. The speaker also mentioned the damage that was being done by removing trees. Not only was the spot disfigured, but untold damage was being done, he stated. Rev. W. R. Brown acted as chairman, and conveyed the thanks of the gathering to Mr. Harrison. Musical selections were rendered by the following: J. M. Butler, solo; Mrs. Little, piano solo, and Miss Fay Ockenden, violin solo.

Schedule in Deadlock

Former Down Victoria, While
Latter Tie Incogs; Wenman Makes Century

A victory for Victoria and a draw for the Wanderers left these teams tied for the Victoria and District Cricket League championship when the official schedule closed on Saturday. Victoria scored their win over the Albions at Beacon Hill, while the Wanderers played for a draw against the Incogs after Reg Wenman had knocked out a century for the latter squad at Mount Tolmie.

The championship of the knock-out series will be decided in a special match between these teams at Beacon Hill next week. It will not decide the league championship, however. Batting first, Victoria scored 168 "Giddy" Goward contributed a good sixty-one not out, while Meredith, with thirty-two and Al Gillespie, with twenty-five, added to the total.

BOWLED WELL—George Wilkinson bowled in fine form for the winners, taking eight wickets for nineteen runs, while Freeman took five for fifty for the Albions. Wilkinson and Pite were the only two to break into double figures for the Albions.

In the other game of the day, Wenman and P. A. Sparks sent the Incogs to a good start, Wenman scoring 101 and Sparks seventy-seven, while the team made 206 for the four wickets. They declared the inning at 4.45 o'clock and the Wanderers played for a draw which they secured when stumps were drawn at 6.30 o'clock. Gibbons led the Wanderers batsmen with thirty-five. Sparks bowled well for the Incogs, taking five wickets for twenty-nine.

Rifle Shooting

In the second stage of the Weller Trophy competition, fired at Heals Range on Saturday, Master Gunner H. Collings led the field with a score of 93 for the ten shots at 300 and 500 yds. Miss Gwynne Spencer still leads in the aggregate with a total of 190, while Collings is second with 186. The final stage at 800 and 900 yards will be fired next Saturday.

GAS EXPLOSION IN CHURCH

Calgary, Sept. 19.—A gas explosion rocked the North Hill United Church late yesterday afternoon, throwing confusion into Sunday school classes which were in session at the time. No one was injured. Four windows in the church were shattered by the blast, and damage amounting to $200 was done to piping, basement walls and ceilings of the church rooms. Plaster cracked and fell to the floor. No outbreak of fire followed the explosion. Thirty-five children were in the classes when the blast occurred. They were removed from the building immediately by the teachers, and all were safely outside when the fire brigade arrived. The cause of the explosion has not been determined.

R. A. LIPSEY TO HEAD CLUBMEN

Will Be Elected President of Gyros This Evening at Annual Meeting

Richard A. Lipsey, vice-president of the Gyro Club last year, will be elected its president by acclamation at the club's annual meeting in the Empress Hotel this evening. When nominations closed Friday evening, no other candidate had been put forward to contest the office. Similarly Charles B. Mess will become vice-president, and Harold L. Butters will be returned as secretary-treasurer.

Eight men will seek the five places on the directorate. They are: Thomas R. Bowden, Robert L. Chafferson, Arthur B. Christopher, Fred W. Hawes, Waldo Skilling, Arthur S. Webster, W. Len Woodhouse and Frank Timmins.

At the meeting, which will take the form of a dinner, starting at 6.15 o'clock in one of the private dining-rooms, reports will be presented by the officers of the 1931-32 term.

INTERNATIONAL GUESTS
As an additional attraction, Bob Abel, Tacoma, immediate past international president, and Charlie Anstie, Vancouver, recently elected international vice-president, will be featured guests and speakers.

Club will gather at luncheon in the hotel to hear Archie Willis, news editor of The Times, speak on a subject related to his recent sojourn in eastern Canada, during which he attended the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa.

A. E. Foreman, Vancouver, of the Portland Cement Company, formerly Deputy Minister of Public Works for British Columbia, will address the Rotarians on the advisability of creating a good roads league in the province. His talk will be given at the club's luncheon in the Empress Hotel on Thursday.

Victoria Business and Professional Women will enjoy a bridge party at their new clubrooms, 605 Courtenay Street, this evening. Mrs. Rose will be convener at the function which will start at 8 o'clock.

The Canadian Club has arranged no meeting for next week.

Salt Spring

Special to The Times
Ganges, Sept. 19.—Nearly 200 people attended a concert by the "Gordon Hawaiians" of Vancouver in Institute Hall, Pultord Harbor, on Friday evening. The programme of music, songs and dances in costume earned enthusiastic encore. The entertainment was under the auspices of the Pultord Athletic Club, and was followed by a dance. Supper was in the hands of a committee of club members, assisted by friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Burkitt and family have returned to St. Mary's Lake, after a week at Fort Washington, Bander Island.

Dr. E. M. Sutherland of Victoria is the guest of Major and Mrs. F. C. Turner of Ganges.

Mrs. A. G. Crofton and her daughter, Dulele, are spending a few days in Victoria.

Mrs. F. L. Crofton is visiting in Vancouver. Miss Viola Hamilton is spending a week or two at Keatings with her mother, Mrs. E. M. Hamilton.

Stewart Bittancourt of Victoria is the guest of friends here.

Kenneth Halley and his sister, Miss Betty Halley have left for Vancouver to study at the University of British Columbia.

Vincent Best of New York, eldest son of Capt. and Mrs. V. C. Best, is visiting his parents for a month.

WILL REQUIRE MORE CHARITY

Relief Cuts Creates Need For New Direct Appeal to Citizens

"In view of the attitude of the government in regard to the distribution of unemployment relief costs the City Council will have to call upon the citizens for more charitable aid," declared Mayor Leeming this morning after receiving the announcement of cuts in relief allowances planned by the government.

"The government, to us, has intimated that the cities will have to be more dependent on direct charity from individuals and less dependent on the government to carry out relief administration."

TO MAKE SURVEY
Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, while intimating that the new relief board would have to make a thorough survey of relief conditions and costs affecting different parts of the province, also stressed the need for a greater appeal to direct charity.

"The time has definitely come," he said, "for municipalities and the people to realize that if the amount available for relief through governmental channels is not enough in their areas, private welfare organizations will have to take a hand. This would apply to churches, welfare leagues, and other agencies, mobilized for the relief of their own citizens."

APPEAL TO DOMINION
"In regard to the municipalities, if the Dominion Government acts on the request of the western provinces and grants a larger percentage of relief from its own funds, there would then be reason for a readjustment of the round; but at the moment, if we budget relief costs, it may have to be on the basis outlined," Mr. Bruhn said.

B.C. PEOPLE BUY MORE INSURANCE

Volume of life insurance carried in British Columbia showed an increase for this last year over the preceding year despite the depression, according to the annual report completed by H. G. Garrett, superintendent of insurance, at the Parliament Buildings.

Total life insurance now in force stands at $46,394,433, against $45,702,000 in the preceding year. Premiums paid total $14,835,253, against $14,292,000 in 1930.

Death and other claims paid last year amounted to $3,126,497, with $335,636 claims unsettled, but not registered.

Registered insurance salesmen and agents of all kinds total 3,695. The report also sets out there are 224 registered real estate agents and salesmen.

There were no suspensions of any insurance or realty agents or salesmen from registration during the year.

The report supports the action of the Dominion government in permitting insurance companies in their assets statements to quote their security holdings at the higher price levels of June 31, 1931, instead of at present market prices, which are much lower.

Dealing with fire insurance and automobile insurance during the year, the report says:

"As the amount of fire insurance carried depends largely on the volume of business and the value of property insured, it is pleasant to note that in this province the value of premiums in 1931 was so little below the figures for 1930, while the losses were nearly $1,000,000 less. No company in Canada has become insolvent, nor has any American company licensed here," he notes. Net premiums written in 1931 were $5,616,372, and net losses paid, $2,563,371; a loss ratio of 45.92 per cent compared with 52.90 per cent in the year previous.

"Automobile premium and losses were both slightly less than in the preceding year, the ratio being about the same and the losses still high. The new provisions of the Insurance Act, which related provisions of the Motor Vehicles Act, came into force on September 1. Tables show net premium of $1,969,000 written on automobile insurance, and $1,181,000 paid in net losses—a loss ratio of 59.52 per cent."

HEADACHE

Here's Quick Relief

A lot of things can cause a headache or other pain, but there is one thing that will always give you relief! Just take a tablet or two of Aspirin. Your suffering ceases. Relief comes instantly, regardless of what may have been making your head throb with pain. Aspirin is harmless—cannot depress the heart. So there's no use waiting for a headache to "wear off." It is useless to endure pain of any kind when you can get Aspirin. It is a blessing to women who suffer regular systemic pain; to men who must work on, in spite of eye-strain, fatigue or neuralgia.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggly And Bub's Ball

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggly looked at the small boy and the small boy looked at Uncle Wiggly. The small boy was Little Bub, who had such red cheeks, such blue eyes and such golden hair that he was named Bubble, for he was colored like the rainbow in a soap bubble. That every one called him Bub, or Little Bub, just for fun.

Uncle Wiggly, of course, was a rabbit gentleman and he would never be anything else. As for Bub, no one could ever tell what he was going to be or what he was going to do. Some times he pretended to be an elephant. The next day he might be a fire engine.

"I'm going to say all night at your hollow stump bungalow, Uncle Wiggly," said Bub, talking like Baby Buntie, the orphan rabbit.

"Oh, what will your mother say?" asked Jingle Longears, a cute little rabbit girl.

"She would like me to stay with you," answered Bub. "I like it here. I'm going to stay all night. I don't want to go home through the dark woods where somebody hollers 'Who! Who! Who!' at me."

"Poh!" laughed Jangle, who was Jingle's twin sister. "That was only an owl bird."

"But I don't like owl birds," said Little Bub. "I am going to stay all night with you, Uncle Wiggly. You can telephone my mother and then she won't worry."

Bub was a very good small boy, not wanting his mother to worry about him.

"All right," answered Mr. Longears.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Although potato cookery is extremely simple, care and attention are required to cook perfectly even so common a dish as plain boiled potatoes. Too often careless cooking sends to our tables potatoes which have lost much of their natural food value.

Most children like potatoes and if the vegetable is properly cooked, it gives excellent returns for the money invested. Thoughtlessly prepared, the vegetable is valuable chiefly as a carrier for fat.

Irish potatoes are low in vitamin A, medium in B and good in C. They are a fair source of iron, contrary to common belief. In fact, one medium-sized potato—properly cooked—yields the same amount of iron grams as one slice of beef 2½ by 1½ by ½ inches. They also contain an alkaline salt which is beneficial in offsetting the acid-forming salts of meat. Hence lies their value as an accompaniment to meat. They aid materially in reducing the acid condition of the body and tend to keep it in good condition.

In order to get the most possible food value from potatoes, keep these suggestions in mind. Do not pare potatoes and let them stand in water for an hour or longer before cooking. This causes the loss of much of their protein and mineral matter. Feeling hungry and putting them on to cook in cold water also wastes the mineral matter. Pooled potatoes cooked in boiling water and salted when almost done lose less of their food value, but unpeeled potatoes, baked or steamed, lose none of the food value. "Boiled" potatoes should be cooked in as little water as possible in a closely covered sauce pan.

Potatoes undoubtedly are more often boiled than cooked by any other method. Many of the inviting variations in potato dishes are based on boiled potatoes. Of course, potatoes for

Pro Patria Branch Visits Solarium

An entertainment was staged by the Pro Patria branch, Canadian Legion for the patients in the Solarium on Saturday. The party arrived at the Solarium loaded with presents for the children, as well as a supply of jam for the institution.

The following artists contributed to a very enjoyable programme: Misses Grimston, Lee and Hamilton; Messrs. Sparks, Cobble, Hunter, Brown and Morry, and Masters Bobby and Jimmie McVie. The party were thanked on behalf of the Solarium by the acting lady superintendent, Mrs. Ellis, and Dr. Cyril Wace, before returning to the city at 5 o'clock.

Horoscope

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1932
Benefic aspects rule strongly to-day, according to astrology. It is a time for determined action. The stars are in favor of the young men and women who have demonstrated ability. Leaders in the professions, business and the arts should be successful.

Persons who have long occupied places in the sun now will become of special value as instructors of the younger generation. It is a forecast.

Opportunities for success will be many in the coming year, when any business enterprise is to be built, it is forecast.

Trained young men and women are in demand for expert service and they are to demonstrate their superior powers in many novel lines of work, astrologers prognosticate.

Shorter hours of labor are to stimulate study and general culture. If the stars are rightly read, libraries will be more and more patronized.

This planetary government is read as favorable for whatever is connected with machinery. Factories should prosper.

Under this way marketing problems may be solved satisfactorily, and the appetite to households as well as communities.

Diet again is to be much discussed, but the problems are to be dealt with humorously, rather than reducing, it is forecast.

Physicians and nurses now are subject to a direction of the stars that seems to promise great demand for services.

This is read as a most auspicious day for shopping expeditions. The early fall purchases will obtain the bargain, for the stars indicate rising prices.

Persons whose birthday is to-day have the augury of a year of fair fortunes in which friends play a big part. Speculation should be avoided.

Children born on this day will be sturdy of mind and body, reliable and resourceful. Many subjects of this sign incline toward independence that assures distinct individuality.

David R. Locke (Petroleum V. Nasby), humorist, was born on this day, 1823. Another who celebrates it as a birthday is Upton Sinclair, 1878, writer.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRID

START EGG YOLK IN SMALL AMOUNTS

Egg yolk is given to baby about the seventh month. Egg white is unnecessary, as the baby's formula supplies sufficient protein so that the white can be dispensed with until the child is over one year old. The yolk contains iron and vitamins A and D, elements found in cod liver oil, which are exceedingly valuable to the baby's diet.

Twice daily, vegetables and egg yolk

THE FORMULA
At this age and weight the bottle formula should be from twenty-eight to thirty ounces of whole boiled milk, four to two ounces of boiled water and about two tablespoons of sugar. The juice of an orange is given once daily and usually at 9 a.m. If all of it is not taken at this time half may be given in the morning and half at 5 p.m.

Neither bread, nor potato are essential to the diet though small portions of crisp toast or sweetbait may be given with the vegetable and egg feeding. The above foods are essential in the diet.

All this information and more is covered in my leaflet, "Feeding the Baby from Two to Twelve Months." Any reader who would like to have a copy of it should send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with each request to me in care of this newspaper.

To-morrow: "Healthy Hair Indicates a Healthy Body."

School of Expression To Have Opening

The formal opening of the Victoria School of Expression for the fall term, will take place on Thursday evening, September 22. A short talk will be given on the work done in the school and a dramatic reading by Mrs. Wilfrid Ord. Parents, older students and others interested in any form of expressive work are cordially invited to attend. The programme, which will commence punctually at 7 o'clock, will be of an hour's duration. Interested visitors are asked to telephone the studio, in order that a seat may be reserved for them.

SOCIAL, PERSONAL AND HOME INTERESTS

for LOVE or MONEY

Servants would close the house and lock it within an hour. As the car whirled through the park Mona felt that a new era in her life was beginning. And so it proved.

CHAPTER XXXIV

Jackson had drawn the Townsend car up alongside the gangplank and the Morans flocked out ahead of the two travelers. The passenger agent hurried forward to greet Mrs. Townsend personally.

"Oh, steward," he called, beckoning. Immediately from nowhere two dusky white-coat members of the Miranda's crew hastened forward and picked up the suitcases, bags and dressing boxes the two girls had considered adequate to contain the articles left out of yesterday's packing. The cabin, as they were to see, was filled with other articles.

"So this is a boat, Min. Are you sure?"

Mona was fumbling in her bag and presently brought forth an envelope. She withdrew two large rectangles of greenish paper and handed them to the agent.

"Tickets," breathed Kitty. "They look like wallpaper."

"The further you go, the bigger they get," someone explained.

Mr. instantaneously, took Lottie's good-natured face and not quite so good-humoredly, it sounded like a dig at Minnie's traveling arrangements. Wasn't Minnie putting up the money and everything?

"Of course it's a boat," she announced spiritedly. "And a fine boat, too. A fine little boat. What did you expect, a floating right club?"

"Something this side of the Nine or the Pink," Lottie remarked. "Well, we're just a pair of vagabond travelers. What do we care?"

Following their guides, loaded with baggage, the girls made their way to the lower cabin, up a flight of stairs into the smoking-room, thence on deck and up a flight of stairs to the boat deck.

"Mr. Ashton said this was the better deck. The natives swarm these boats at every port and on this deck it is impossible for them to look in at our portholes," Mona explained. "We have the stateroom reserved for the government official at St. Thomas. It must be all right."

Stateroom A was the best the boat afforded. It was not large, nor could it be called small. Two iron beds were "rooted to the floor," as Mona put it. A dresser was likewise attached. There were two comfortable rattan armchairs, and a long mirror. Widows looked out on a tiny deck which the steward assured them was their own. The windows likewise faced the stern and second cabin quarters.

Across a sweep of lower deck filled with winches, coils of rope and open hatches Mona could see the second cabin. It looked somewhat like a miniature flatiron building shoved into the stern.

"Glorious, all Harlem is aboard!" she exclaimed. "It doesn't seem so. The second class-cabin and decks were filled to overflowing. Yellow girls, seal-brown girls, all dressed in 1932 street version of the latest fashions. There were fat women, kinky-haired women, a few children. Men who looked, and probably were, pillars of a church somewhere. Young men in narrow hipped, tightly belted coats, their hats afloat. Crying women. Laughing women. All the varying shades of brown.

"Are they all leaving town?" Lottie gasped.

"They were not all leaving town, it seemed. When the gong sounded for the visitors to go the greater part of the gathering reluctantly sought the gangplank.

One woman wearing a blue suit that would have done Lottie credit burst into tears and flung her arms about the neck of a man in grey.

"You ain't never coming back," she wailed. "You ain't never coming back. I know it!"

"Hush, Flo, honey."

"You ain't 'Fro, honey!"

"Well," soothingly, "I ain't if you don't want me to."

Lottie accompanied Kitty on a tour of inspection while Mona took leave of her mother. Lottie returned, far from intrigued with the Miranda.

"You can't buy candy," she said. "You can't even get a magazine."

"We have plenty of everything in our bags, Lottie."

"Yes, plenty," said ma. I packed them myself."

Another gong sounded.

"Are you sure this is a good cabin?" asked ma doubtfully.

"Of course," Mona assured her. These are the only de luxe—

"Heaven help us!" Lottie interrupted here.

Mona continued. "These are the only de luxe rooms with windows out of reach of the natives. That seems important, particularly as we shall stop at so many of the islands. All day at some of them."

"They let the natives swarm the place?"

"It seems they do. They depend upon the natives a lot for freight."

Locking the stateroom, the little party made its way to the lower deck but—chance to the deck near the second cabin where the gangplank stood.

"Write now, Min," cautioned ma with flowing eyes. It was the first time Min had been away from her for periods of more than a few weeks.

"All ashore that's going ashore!" sang the steward.

"Goodby, Kitty. Be a good girl. Write to me, Min, do. Kitty said shyly. 'And give my love to Bud.'"

"Help ma. Don't let her slip on the gangplank," Mona instructed. "We can't go down again. We are supposed to stay up here."

The deck hands were busy with ropes rushed this way and that. Ma and Kitty, among the last, were urged gently off the gangplank. The crowd surged forward to the end of the pier. The plank was drawn in amid much shouting. A dressmaker's messenger had arrived too late apparently. With excellent aim the package he held in his hand tossed aboard and a name shouted.

The tug up forward had come alongside and suddenly the Miranda throbbed and quivered.

"Exactly on time," announced a fellow passenger at Lottie's elbow. The clock on the soap factory close at hand struck four.

The strip of water between the Miranda and the pier widened. Straw, bottles, orange peeling rose and swayed with the motion of the water. The Miranda sidestepped, moving out into the of the river instead of forward. Then the ship shivered again and moved forward. Past the Battery and Bedloe's Island. Out into the harbor.

"South America lay ahead!"

"I'm going to miss that old lady," said Lottie, wiping a tear away. Lottie was in fine fettle. Nothing short of police instructions would have been able to wrest her away from the deck just then.

"Do you mean my mother?" queried Mona. "That's a nice way to talk!"

Lottie shook her head. "I don't mean your mother, you idiot! I mean Old Lady Liberty. The statue! This is the first time in my life I've ever left my country 'tis of thee. Now let's go inside and fix up pretty for the fellow voyagers."

CHAPTER XXXV

There were twenty first-class passengers on the Miranda. The government official who had cancelled the stateroom occupied by Mona and Lottie was represented by another official quartered in the second best stateroom. He was an attractive young chap who said modestly that he was "in textiles." When the Miranda reached his island it developed that he was quite a personage.

A nice old couple taking a belated honeymoon waited about the deck hand in hand. A younger couple, not so amusing or interesting, permitted the entire ship's company to know that they were going south on an important mission, collecting tropical fish for a museum.

The consul's nephew was returning to one of the French islands after what (so a steward confided) had been a fruitless search of New York for an earlier passenger with whom he had fallen in love.

Two under-aged women, seeking a home where the exchange would make their meagre income adequate, were among the passengers. An enthusiastic auto salesman was en route to introduce a newly patented tire lock through the islands, a mission scoffed at privately by the ship's officers. The natives, said the officers, would never arouse themselves to the labor of adjusting a spare tire, much less the task of stealing one from another car.

And then there was the ship's doctor to be found at almost any hour of the day or evening. Lottie's side.

"Dr. Allen isn't the regular ship's doctor," Lottie told Mona on the second day out. "This line doesn't use them. They distribute vacation trips to bright boys just out of hospital. This keeps the ship's doctoring business on its toes. The doctors are likely to have a touch of seasickness themselves and have sympathy for the rest of us."

Dr. Allen, it seemed, had much sympathy for Lottie. They strolled the deck, sat for hours over cooling drinks lashed at the rail in joyous interchanges of flippancy. Mona, not quite escaping the difficulties of the voyage, lay back in her deck chair, pale and smiling at them.

Two days out. Cape Hatteras. The Miranda pitched and rolled and pitched again. The gaities of banjo and lulling songs from the second cabin quivered.

"We haven't dropped them off, have we?" Lottie inquired of the physician, pointing at the quiet of the tomb reigned. At that moment a bell announcing meal time in the second cabin rang briskly. There was no answering about. Eating was far from the programme of the day.

"All sick," the doctor observed sympathetically. "But by Saturday they'll be out."

Lottie watched the second cabin quarters rising and falling with every pitching of the boat. It was like the swaying of a sea-saw.

"How do they stand it?" she murmured sympathetically. "It's certainly terrible to be poor!"

"You are one of the few wealthy women I've ever heard say that," Dr. Allen observed.

"So you think I'm wealthy, do you?" Lottie thought. Aloud she did not say anything.

"If I could get her to marry me," the doctor was musing. "I'd be on easy street. It takes years to build up a practice."

But he did not persuade Lottie to marry him and on the fourth day out she reserved her attention for the auto salesman who told her that she really should buy a new car.

Friday the air was warmer and the ship's officers appeared in white. Sunday it was still warmer. The clouds were sunny and low-hung. The turquoise sky seemed almost in reach if one could only stand tiptoe on the topmast. The waters, on which golden seaweed floated, had turned to deep indigo.

Men passengers appeared self-consciously in white linens and sports shoes. One islander wore a pith helmet as he strolled the deck in the middle of the day.

And then on Monday morning an emerald island appeared ahead. An emerald, set in silver sands, floating on the sapphire sea.

"I don't wonder the boys adore the tropics," Mona breathed.

The Miranda docked at St. Thomas and the two girls went ashore to buy a stock of French perfume and fruit. The doctor drove them to the beach past Lindbergh's Bay where the aviator had made a "happy landing," where they swam in the sapphire water and sat on the silver beach while native boys scrambled up the trees for coconuts.

Former Islander Thrives On Woes

Tom Berry, former lessee of Duncan Hotel, tastes all grief of farmer's life, but grows fat in spite of work and worry.

The griefs of a farmer, and in his case they were many, have failed to wear Tom Berry, who has been over Vancouver Island as the former lessee and manager of the Trounsham Hotel, Duncan, to a shadow. Recently Mr. Berry, now a hotelman in Chilliwack, told his woes to a friend, but smilingly admitted they had not cut down on his 330 pounds of brawn.

When Mr. Berry bought nine sheep two weeks ago, lightning came along and killed several of them.

He bought a cow last summer for $70, but failed to find anyone in the Chilliwack Valley fearless or skilful enough to milk her.

When he bought 100 baby chicks in the spring, they thrived for a few days and then bunched up in one corner of their sleeping quarters and smothered themselves to death.

Last summer Mr. Berry tried his hand at raising mallard ducks. They flew away when old enough to do so. He tried raising foxes, and the anti-

NEWS IN BRIEF

The new relief allowances proposed by the provincial government were discussed at a lengthy session of the City Council's special relief committee this morning. It was stated any recommendations decided were submitted to the council this evening.

A meeting of the Mount Newton High School Parent-Teacher Association was held on Friday evening at the school. Plans for improvement of the school grounds were discussed. It was decided to open the school's activities with a card party, to be held at the school on Friday, September 30.

On Saturday evening an enjoyable smoker was held in the clubrooms of the Army and Navy Veterans. H. Callow presided and the artists were: Percy Fletcher, Sergeant-Major Symes (Vancouver), George Wilson, T. Wedderburn, J. Henslowe, R. Gosser, J. Rivers, W. S. Emerson, S. Howard, Ronald Smith, J. Scott and J. Harper.

H. W. Wright, third vice-president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Ottawa, Mrs. Wright, and F. D. Smith, superintendent of agencies, arrived in the city by this afternoon's boat from Vancouver. He is making an inspection of the Coast branches and will confer with W. W. Macdonald, local manager. While here the party will be at the Empress Hotel.

Grass fires at 2011 Douglas Street and at the intersection of Fincoe and Oswego Streets were attended by the fire department yesterday during a busy session which gave equipment run-to-chimney fires at Bay and Douglas and Bluff Streets and a roof fire on Yale Street in Oak Bay. One call, to a chimney fire at 2635 Rose Street, was answered this morning.

Hon. William Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture, left yesterday evening for Armstrong, where he will meet Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture. They will attend the regional fair September 19-22, at the island city. Each year a small fair is held at the regional fair, this means a grant of $1,000 in addition to the assistance given by the provincial government.

The Cariboo Livestock and Fair Association at Williams Lake exceeded all expectations, according to advices at the Department of Agriculture to-day. The auction sale of fat stock netted $1,500 more than the market price, owing to spirited bidding for the grand and other champions by commercial houses. One hundred and twenty-seven head of cattle were disposed of. This small fair received a grant of $174 from the government this year, which, official figures show, is clearly justified by the results achieved.

An interesting programme was drawn up for the ensuing year at a meeting of the St. Luke's A.P.A. held Saturday evening. Debating was introduced as a new topic of interest for some of the members. Election of committees for the year resulted as follows: Sports, Miss L. Gillan and H. Whitehead; social committee, Miss Eve Lyndon and A. Pearson; refreshments, Miss E. Hunter; Miss Helen Riley will take charge of the musical part of the programme.

Police reserves were called out on a burglary case yesterday evening at the Metropolitan Store, Douglas Street, but it proved to be a false alarm. A citizen phoned headquarters, stating he had heard an explosion in the building while waiting for a street car. Two detectives and four constables rushed to the place and surrounded the premises, while the manager came with the store keys. With guns in readiness to handle the intruders, the squad then dashed into the building. There was no explosion. The explosion, it was revealed, was caused by the contents of one of the windows collapsing, making a resounding crash.

IN LAID TO REST

Many friends attended the funeral of Mrs. Mary Ann, which took place Saturday afternoon. Rev. O. L. Jull conducted the service. Interment was in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery. The following acted as pallbearers: C. Bailey, J. Linnell, T. J. Durkin and G. Guller.

CONDEMN WHOLE OF KIDD REPORT

United Front Conference Opposed to It in Its Entirety

High-lights of the Kidd report, with particular stress on those recommendations which directly affected the workers were discussed at the meeting of the United Front Conference on View Street, opposition to salary reductions and personnel of the departments of the government, the P.G.E. and the liquor warehouses was voiced and resolutions passed.

The limitations placed on the number of children necessary to open schools and the proposal to force children over the age of fourteen years to pay for further education or be driven on the street market cause in for explicit condemnation, and it was decided to ask for free education and free meals for the children of the unemployed up to the age of eighteen years.

Police changes, Boys' Industrial Home matters, old age pensions, Minimum Wage Act repeal and other matters were discussed and finally a resolution was put and unanimously adopted that "this conference is opposed to the Kidd Report in its entirety." The conference also affirmed the attitude of the united front council in its demand for non-contributory unemployment insurance.

DIED SUNDAY

There passed away yesterday morning at the Jubilee Hospital, Harry Thomas Morley, aged fifty-five years. Born in London, England, he came to this city eleven months ago from Winnipeg. He is survived by his widow at 305 Moss Street, two brothers and three sisters in England and one brother in West Africa. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Santa Mortuary Chapel and the remains will be laid to rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

Venturesome Girls Hike Into Forbidden Plateau

Despite Thunderstorms and Indian's Mystic Warnings Trip Proves Success

Marjorie Foster, Colquitz, and Florence Woodward, Brentwood, Carry Packs

Thrilled with their adventure and ready to do it all over again at the first opportunity two enterprising Vancouver Island young ladies have just returned from a hiking trip into the rugged Forbidden Plateau.

They are Miss Marjorie Foster of Wellington Road, Colquitz, and Miss Florence Woodward of Brentwood. A camera which Miss Foster carried and a ukulele with which Miss Woodward livened the evenings around the campfire or strummed as the two hikers trudged the long, long road and sang to the growing weight of their substantial packs, were among the most important items of their equipment.

When the adventurers started from Brentwood to cross on the ferry for the beginning of their long hike Miss Foster was full of confidence. She had before hiked into the Forbidden Plateau and was eager to enjoy its rugged charm again. Miss Woodward, to whom the strenuous work of hiking was new, was a little dubious but game for the big test.

"It was wonderful," they said, in telling of their trip. "We ate when we liked. We slept when we liked. Sometimes by a beach, sometimes by a river bank. We avoided hotels and restaurants. It is far more interesting to cook your own bacon and eggs and make your own tea. There is a thrill in an early morning camp breakfast in the great outdoors."

The hikers drew a lot of attention and admiration as carrying their heavy loads of blankets, food, pots and pans they forged ahead over the highways and by-ways.

They called at Courtenay to get maps and information from the president of the Courtenay Alpine Club, and at Courtenay they were leaving, they adhered to their intention to go in alone and on foot. They camped at the foot of the trail for the night and made an early morning start. Rain, dates and chocolate formed their diet.

"But I wouldn't recommend it," said Miss Woodward, "because I was thoroughly tired of them. We changed over to bread and cheese for the return trip. They had experiences on the way, but the pleasantest was the lone girl who came to the camp and gave us a pack train was leaving, they adhered to their intention to go in alone and on foot. They camped at the foot of the trail for the night and made an early morning start. Rain, dates and chocolate formed their diet."

Ignoring the warnings they plodded ahead. By nightfall they had made a comfortable camp on a bed of a framework left by other campers.

"Beans and bacon were cooking by the campfire. Ploos had her ukulele and was enjoying a merry open-air musicale when the thunder and lightning came again. We found a hollow stump where we spent the night. Our blankets were damp and we were awake before dawn ready to start again." Marjorie said. Rain made the trails muddy and the hikers were tired and weary when they reached the plateau, but its beauty evidently compensated them for their hardships.

They broke their rule on the return to spend one refreshing night at a hotel in Courtenay before starting the long hike back to Brentwood. They slept one night at Qualicum Beach. Their last camping ground was Cowichan Bay near the Indian Reserve.

"We tried to sleep minus our blankets and it was not so good," Marjorie said. "Mud cranes and crows made a discordant concert which made any early morning beauty sleep impossible."

"We accepted a ride to Mill Bay and crossed on the ferry for home. It was a great trip and the finest and most enjoyable holidays we have ever had."

Birthday Greetings Are Extended To-day To—

STUART HENDERSON
HON. R. H. POOLEY
THOMAS WALLACE MACPHERSON
GEORGE PATON

STUART HENDERSON

Stuart Henderson, Victoria lawyer, is celebrating his birthday to-day. Mr. Henderson, who is the eldest son of the late William Henderson, resident Dominion architect in Victoria for many years, was born in Lomnay, Aberdeenshire, Scotland, in 1863. He came to Canada in 1872 with his parents and was educated at the Central School, West Ottawa and Collegiate Institute in Ottawa where he received a medals in classics and mathematics. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Toronto in 1885, taking honors in mathematics. In 1888 he was awarded his LL.B. standing first in the third and fourth years. In the same year he was awarded his B.C.L. from Trinity University with a gold medal. After practicing law in Ontario for a few years he came to British Columbia in 1897 and hung out his shingle in Ashcroft for thirteen years. In 1907 he was appointed an examiner in law for Toronto University. Since 1922 he has been practicing his profession in Victoria. He has defended in many of the outstanding criminal trials in British Columbia, notably the Gannett, Paul and Spindum, Walker and Chinley murder cases. Mr. Henderson resides at 1825 Fairfield Road.

HON. R. H. POOLEY

Hon. Robert Henry Pooley, K.C., Attorney-General of British Columbia celebrated his birthday yesterday. Mr. Pooley, who was born in Victoria in 1878, received his education at Bradford College, Berkshire, England. He has practiced law in British Columbia since 1902. He was first elected to the B.C. Legislature in 1912, when he ran as a Conservative candidate for the Esquimalt riding. He was re-elected in 1914, 1916 and 1924 and was leader of the Conservative Opposition in the House. He was again re-elected in 1928 and on the formation of the Toomey cabinet was given the portfolio of Attorney-General. He is a member of the Union Club and the Victoria Golf Club. Among his hobbies are golf, motorcycling, cricket, hunting, fishing and tennis. Mr. Pooley lives at 1185 Old Esquimalt Road.

THOMAS WALLACE MACPHERSON

Thomas Wallace MacPherson, Vancouver Island manager for the Home Oil Distributors Limited, is celebrating his birthday to-day. Born in Glasgow, Mr. MacPherson early took to the sea and quickly secured his deep-water chief engineer's papers. During the war he was an engineer in the British Patrol Service and saw action chiefly in the North Sea. After the cessation of hostilities he decided to try his luck in Canada. He joined the Canadian Merchant Marine and for a number of years was chief engineer aboard the Canadian Farmer. When the Home Oil Distributors started business he joined them and has been with the firm ever since. Prior to coming to Victoria two years ago he was manager of the Prince Rupert depot. Mr. MacPherson is a member of the Victoria Gyo Club and takes a keen interest in club activities. He is a keen golfer and is frequently seen on the greens of the Uplands Golf Club. Mr. MacPherson lives at 3120 Quadra Street.

GEORGE "JOKER" PATON

George "Joker" Paton, well-known supporter of amateur sport in Victoria, is celebrating his birthday to-day. He is a keen golfer and is frequently seen on the greens of the Uplands Golf Club. Mr. Paton lives at 3120 Quadra Street.

Death Summons Of Victorian

Ronald MacDonnell, Colorful Figure of Half-century Ago, Passes

Sportsman and Theatrical Promoter Known Here; Funeral Wednesday

Old-time residents of Victoria will learn with regret of the passing in St. Paul's Hospital, Vancouver, yesterday of Ronald J. MacDonnell, a well-known figure in this city in the days when part of Government Street was known as Bird Cage Walk and rugged miners passing from the goldfields were a common sight on the city streets.

Mr. MacDonnell was born in San Francisco, February 28, 1853, and came to Victoria when he was five years of age. His mother at that time kept a boarding house on Bird Cage Walk, which was a popular meeting place for legislators and other politicians when the House was in session.

Until the last twenty years Mr. MacDonnell resided in Victoria, then moving to Port Langford, then to old Hazelton, Stewart and Hyder, Alaska. In the early days of Victoria he was an important figure in theatrical life. He presented vaudeville at the old Savoy Theatre and in Vancouver, and at the same time sent shows on the road to Whitehorse and Dawson when the Yukon rush made those towns busy centres crowded with miners looking for entertainment.

His open-handed generosity was recalled by friends to-day. He was of a kindly disposition and no appeal to him for charity or help for a friend in need was ever rejected. He was a member of the Eagles' Lodge, to which he had belonged many years.

In Victoria he took a leading part in sport promotion, organizing horse racing, boxing and lacrosse. He had five sons and one daughter, all of whom predeceased him. His sons inherited their father's love of sport and several of them played with Victoria lacrosse teams. He leaves two grand-children, Miss Jean Burns, school teacher at Smithers, and Clarence Goodwin of Smithers.

The funeral will be held in Victoria Wednesday afternoon from the B.C. Funeral Parlor with services at St. Andrew's Cathedral.

KIDD REPORT OUT THIS WEEK

Printing of the Kidd report for public circulation is now being completed by the government printers. The edition of the report to be made to the public will carry the government's comments, corrections and explanations, paragraph by paragraph. It was expected that by this means the public will be given an unexpurgated edition of the report, but at the same time it will be fair to the government, as where statements and findings are wrong from the government point of view they will be set right so the public will not be misled.

It is expected the report will be ready for mailing by the end of this week. Applications for copies are now being received at the Parliament Buildings.

LAST RITES HELD

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock for Mrs. Sarah Robertson Macdonald, Knight Bayne, who passed away Friday evening at her residence, 510 Beach Drive. Rev. E. Lundie officiated in the presence of friends, and the remains were later forwarded to Vancouver for cremation.

ACTRESS LEAPS TO HER DEATH

Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 19.—A young woman, who leaped to her death from the top of a sign, was identified today as Lillian Millicent "Peg" Entwistle, New York stage actress, graduate of the Theatre Guild, who had failed to find recognition in the movies here.

The body was found yesterday at the top of the sign. The girl apparently had been dead twenty-four hours. She left a note saying: "I'm afraid I'm a coward. I am sorry for everything. If I had done this long ago it would have saved a lot of pain."

A workman's ladder which had been used at the sign provided the actress her means of reaching her leaping point.

FARM PICKETS LOSE SKIRMISH

Police Get Sheep Into Worthington, Minn., After Price Strikers Attempt

Associated Press
Worthington, Minn., Sept. 19.—Branding clubs and blocking roads with steel girders, heavy wire cable and spiked machine belts, farmer pickets seeking higher produce prices went into action to-day and soon afterward lost in their first brush with the law.

Sheriff Eldon Row and Deputy Sheriff Albert Levine went to the aid of S. V. Calvin, farmer living south of here, and rescued Calvin's load of hogs after pickets had unhitched his team, tied the horses to a telephone pole and ran the wagon load into a ditch.

Led by M. B. Miller, vice-chairman of the Nobles County unit of the State Farmers' Holiday Association, who defied the parent body in establishing picket lines, upwards of 300 men patrolled ten highways leading into Worthington.

The pickets were instructed to turn back all non-perishable farm products in a scheduled list of the First Division of the English Football Association to-day.

LOOKS FOR BIG TOURIST TRADE

Victoria Will Benefit From Work Already Done When Conditions Improve

City's Contacts in Oregon and California Strong, Capt. F. M. O'Connor Says

When business conditions improve, Victoria will reap the rewards of hard and consistent work by its publicity emissaries in building up the tourist trade, in the opinion of Capt. F. M. O'Connor, contact man for the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau in Southern Oregon and Northern California, who arrived in Victoria for the winter yesterday morning.

Another 436 active contacts, composed of people who come directly into touch with tourists and play a part in regions to visit during their holidays, have been built up in his territory during the 1932 season, Capt. O'Connor said.

A big factor in favor of the Island in future tourists assets are the new coast highways from Tia Juana, Mexico, to Port Angeles, Capt. O'Connor said. Over these new roads visitors will speed along towards the capital of British Columbia and avail themselves of the ferry service to visit the Island, he believes.

CONTACTS WARM
The contacts that have been built up this year as well as those who have been maintained from previous seasons, are great boosters for Victoria, the local agent declared. This spirit of co-operation being shown by them was greatly stimulated by the recent visit of Herbert Anacom and George I. Warren, publicity commissioners of the bureau, to the Coast points, he said.

Travel on the Coast in general was down about forty-five to fifty per cent this year, he stated. The normal yearly northward run of tourists during June and July seemed to have been strangled during 1932, and had been replaced by a southern flow to Los Angeles later in the season. Had it not been for the Olympic Games, he expressed the conviction Victoria would have done better, although he was perfectly satisfied the city had secured her share of the travel this summer.

LOOK FOR REPEAL

Speaking of conditions generally in the United States, he voiced the opinion of the big, heavily populated industrial centres of that country were far worse off than the towns of Canada, Oregon and northern California appeared strongly Democratic, he con-

FIVE FINED AFTER RAID

Five persons appeared before Magistrate George Jay in the City Police Court this morning following a raid by police Saturday night on the Strand Hotel, 560 Johnson Street.

Shirley Nelson was fined $100 or two months for being the keeper of a disorderly house. Billie Winston and Kathleen Hansen were fined $35 each as inmates, and Jim Lee and William Beams were fined $15 for being found in the place.

FUNERAL TO-MORROW

The funeral of Winnifred Mary Bradley will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home. Rev. James Hood will officiate and interment will be in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

The big westerter, of Spanish family, has enormous hands and wrists. He played his early golf on Pebble Beach, which is a long exacting course. Dutra takes a very long ball with a slight hook that holds it up into a wind and makes it roll as it comes to earth. In addition to powerful hitting he controls the ball well in trap shots and on the green. He is one of the few U.S. pros who are thoroughly familiar with play in a wind, as his home course, Rentwood, is towards the ocean from Los Angeles and often gets a ripping breeze that tears in from the Pacific ocean.

estations were fired from all parts of the floor to Chairman Alex. Marshall and Mr. Craig succeeded in answering them all. Several minor arguments, which were really nothing more than quibbles, were started but did not amount to anything. It was stated by the speaker that in the same situation twenty-five years ago the same result would have been reached. The meeting adjourned amicably and successfully when both associations laid their cards face up on the table. Praising and defending the B.C.F.A. for suspending the Manchester Club, Alex. Manson, former president of the B.C.F.A., spoke briefly in support of the action. The address was made by Joe Bloom, C. V. Williams, and the meeting adjourned.

Chicago Cubs Within Single Game Of National Pennant

Creep Within Lone Game of National Loop Championship

Cubs Will Open Four-game Series With Pittsburgh To-morrow and One Victory Gives Them Pennant and Right to Oppose New York Yankees in World Baseball Series; Pirates Whipped Giants Twice Yesterday; Athletics Win Pair; Foxs Hits His Fifty-third Home Run

Given an off-day by the schedule-makers to-day, Chicago Cubs collected all their forces for a last-ditch grapple with the Pittsburgh Pirates that may clinch the National League pennant for the Cubs.

By their spectacular 4-to-3 victory over Cincinnati Reds in fifteen innings yesterday, the Cubs can clinch the flag by a single victory over the Pirates in the four-game series which opens to-morrow.

The Pirates beat New York Giants twice, 7 to 4 and 6 to 3, with Lloyd Waner leading the way. The Corsairs jumped into an early lead in each contest and then held it easily. Brooklyn's hold on third place was seriously endangered as the fourth-place Phillies won a 5 to 1 decision behind Phil Collins's six-hit pitching. Boston Braves made no headway in their bid for a first division berth, splitting two games with the St. Louis Cardinals, 3 to 2 and 5 to 2.

YANKS BREAK EVEN
In the American League, the champion New York Yankees beat St. Louis Browns, 7 to 2, but they could not solve Sam Gray's slants in the second game and went down 2 to 1.

Philadelphia Athletics beat the Chicago White Sox twice, 4 to 3 and 7 to 4, as Jimmy Fox hit his fifty-third home run of the year. Washington dropped back by splitting a double bill with Cleveland Indians, losing the first, 7 to 3, and winning the second 3 to 2. McNaughton's wildness enabled Detroit to whip Boston Red Sox, 6 to 5.

Victoria All-stars Defeat North Shore

THISTLES AND WESTS VICTORS

Defeat Esquimalt and Victoria City, Respectively, in Coast Soccer Games

Mail, New Centre-forward For Thistles, Performs Hat Trick

Saturday's matches in the Victoria division of the Pacific Coast Football Association produced two surprises. At the Heywood Avenue grounds the Saanich Thistles turned in a splendid performance to defeat Esquimalt, last year's city champions, 5 to 1, while at lower Deacon Hill the Victoria Wests humbled Victoria City, 3 to 2.

As the City and Esquimalt both won their opening matches, the four clubs are now on even terms.

Although they faded in the latter part of the game, the "Wests" soccer team proved strong enough to beat Victoria City.

The Greenhairs, playing sound football, overcame a terrific down-field wind handicap to run in a goal before the interval. Cockin scored, and added two more, one by Jack Okeil and the other by Cyril Connorton, in the second half.

City scored both their tallies after the Wests gained their three-goal lead. Davidson shooting in the first and McBay the second.

A heavy wind blowing straight down the field, spoiled the brand of soccer virtually all the way.

City used the wind in the first half, running in on high jobs in front of the goal mouth. But their forwards failed to connect, while the Wests' backs worked overtime clearing and Hood played a sensational game between the sticks.

The Greenhairs broke away on periodic rushes, making dangerous, low-saving rushes into the City's territory.

Hood saved a beautiful drive from McMillan as the City kept up the pressure.

COCKIN SCORES
Twenty minutes from the start Borde got away and passed to Cockin, who transferred to Shanks on the wing. Shanks shot but Wests' defence was too strong.

Cockin ran in to take the ball while Chalmers was fumbling with his clearance. He pushed in an easy shot for the first West tally.

West played largely on the defence after the opening counter. With the City still attacking and showing lack of finish in front of goal, Wright and Moody, Wests' backs, played a good second half, Shanks and Peers spoiled several good City attacks when they reached the Greenhairs' half-back line.

Four minutes after the rest interval Jack Okeil came down on a nice West attack. He took the ball thirty-five yards out and drove it into the top corner of the net for the second tally.

Youson missed by a foot shortly after on a good pass from Connorton as the Greenhairs stayed on the offensive.

The City broke away on a smart forward movement but failed in front of the net.

WESTS THREE UP
Several minutes after their second goal, the Wests went on another good attack. Lorandini passed the ball to Shanks on the wing. Shanks shot but Chalmers failed to get the ball away.

Shanks and Connorton ran in, Connorton connecting with the ball to score the third goal.

Time and again the City went down but failed to score.

Twenty-five minutes from the interval, Davidson, City forward, scored on a pass from Southern, who relied also Murray in the second half.

The goal came after the City had been dithering around on the attack for some time.

With a two-goal lead the Wests lost their punch the City kept hammering away on the attack.

Ten minutes after their first goal City forwards went down on a good passing movement. Murray took the ball on the wing and hit the Wests' crossbar. McBay ran in to take the rebound and banged the ball past Hood.

Just before the close Connorton missed a pretty shot by inches after working through the City defence with Shanks.

The teams lined up as follows:
Victoria Wests—Hood; Moody and Wright; Lorandini, Peers and Borde; Youson, Okeil, Connorton, Cockin and Shanks.
Victoria City—Chalmers; Dobbin and McBay; McLean, Gibbons and Smith; Woe Murray, Davidson, A. Murray and J. Murray.
The out-of-towners provided a great surprise when they defeated the city champions, 5 to 1, while at lower Deacon Hill the Victoria Wests humbled Victoria City, 3 to 2.

Runners-up For Canadian Football Championship Suffer 3 to 2 Defeat Here

North Shore United, Vancouver, runners-up for the Canadian football championship this year, ran into a snag at the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday afternoon, in the form of a 3 to 2 defeat at the hands of the all-star eleven from the Victoria and District League. The exhibition match played in a high wind attracted only a handful of spectators. Victoria led 2 to 1 at the interval.

The highlight of the match was the splendid play of Sylvester, left half-back of Victoria, and Rogers, local goalie. This pair turned in two of the best performances seen on a local pitch for some time. Sylvester broke up attack after attack and constantly relieved the pressure on the Victoria goal with his sure kicking. Rogers, an excellent goalkeeper, especially in the second half, and several times pulled off saves that appeared impossible.

VICTORIA IN LEAD
Kicking with the wind in the first half Victoria took the offensive, and five minutes after the opening whistle took the lead when McGee, North Shore back, headed the ball into his own goal in attempting to head clear Stofor's fine centre from a corner kick.

North Shore took just six minutes to get back on to even terms, Lanyon, outside right, accepted Seale's cross from the opposite wing to beat Rogers with a low shot. Victoria missed a fine chance to score shortly after, when Woodley's centre across the goal mouth was missed by Anderson and Thorne. From the resultant corner kick Anderson scored, heading in Stofor's centre off one of the North Shore players. Half-time found no change in the score.

VISITORS PRESS
With the wind at their back the visitors attacked the local goal with a vengeance in the second half. They lodged rush after rush, but it was not until ten minutes before time they were able to tie the score. Henderson, who had been in the Victoria defence, scored with a centre. This coincides with the return to form of Dixie Dean, whose brace of goals gave Everton victory in an exciting Lancashire struggle with Manchester City before 40,000 spectators. Tossland, opened the scoring for the City, but Dean put the teams level before the change of ends. The Everton player making the game safe from a centre by Stein shortly before the close. Nicholls played his first game for The City, gave a splendid exhibition of goalkeeping.

In the Second Division, Bradford City, playing at home, played sparkling football in an effort to record their sixth straight win, but the Swans defence proved too good for them. Hallows scored for The City after forty-four minutes, and Swans drew level after the resumption through a surprise goal by Lewis.

Afterwards Bradford seemed to be heading towards recovery. The Welsh defence, but without avail. Northampton Town may soon have visions of a rat cheque for Albert Davies, their star forward, who has performed the remarkable feat of scoring four goals twice within two weeks. Defeating Swindon, 6 to 0, in a Southern Section, Third Division game, Davies scored four times in the second half. Forbes and Boyle having netted in the first half.

Brain, the old Arsenal centre-forward, performed the hat-trick for Darlington in a Northern Section game against Accrington Stanley, which the former won, 5 to 0. Only one goal had been scored at half-time, but Accrington's defence was unable to stand the constant pressure in the second stanza.

Glasgow, Sept. 19.—Several surprising results were recorded in Scottish football on Saturday, when games were played in fine weather before good crowds. East Strathgairn sprang a surprise at Aberdeen, winning their first game of the season, 3 to 1.

One goal down at half time through a goal scored by Moore, East Stirling took command in the second period, Finlayson scoring twice and Fraser once.

After three successive defeats, in which they lost seventeen goals, Queen's Park, playing at home, trounced Celtic, who were without McGraw and Cook. Brenner scored twice for the amateurs.

Ayr United surprised Kilmarnock on the latter's ground, winning 5 to 3. Ferguson did the hat-trick for the United and Merrile scored twice, while Kilmarnock's goals were scored by Connell and Maxwell.

McGraw scored the only goal of the game in which St. Mirren defeated Morton on the latter's ground. Motherwell had a big struggle at Falkirk, where each side scored two goals. The visitors were behind twice during the game. Dougal scored two goals for the home team, Motherwell replying through McPayden and McMenemy.

McGraw scored the goal by which Clyde defeated Third Lanark, while Rangers disposed of Partick Thistle in easy fashion, winning by three clear goals. Norton and Smith netted, and R. Donnelly sent the ball through his own goal.

Walker-Schmeling Bout Again Halted
New York, Sept. 19.—A second postponement of the Mickey Walker-Schmeling heavyweight bout until Saturday evening, Sept. 26, was announced Saturday evening by Madison Square Garden.

The postponement was decided upon after an examination of a wound on Walker's forearm revealed it had not healed. Dr. Vinicio Vardello, representing the New York State Athletic Commission, recommended the former welterweight and middleweight champion be given a few more days to reach prime physical condition.

The half whistle the score was 2 to 0 for the Thistles.

PERFORMS HAT TRICK
Immediately after the assumption of play Mail again netted the ball to complete his hat-trick. Mail trapped the ball at the centre line and ran down the field, eluding the opposing backs. With a clear field in front of him he slipped one past the goalie. The ball never rose more than two feet from the ground and De Costa did not have a chance in the world of saving it. Less than two minutes later Jim Crowe added the final Thistles' contribution when he shot in a fast goal.

It looked as if the Thistles were going to whitewash the dockers until the last quarter hour of the game. The Esquimalt boys, fighting hard, all the way, did seem able to get past the splendid backfield defence of the suburbanites. Finally Richard, the centre forward in the second half of the game, managed to get past the backs and slipped one past Wilmhurst. This was the only tally that the Esquimalt eleven was able to get. After this goal the game seemed to be a case of the field to the other with both teams trying desperately to score but not being successful.

The teams lined up as follows:
Saanich Thistles—Wilmhurst; McKennie, Leggett; Williams, Viggers, Duncan; Esler, Price, Mail, Burns and J. Crowe.

Esquimalt—De Costa; March, Joe Watt; Pepin, Blehard, Sweeney; R. Stewart, A. Stewart, John Watt, Edwards and Williams.

Davies retired.

English Elevens In Great Battle For First Place

Aston Villa, Portsmouth and West Bromwich Deadlocked at Head of First Division Football Table; Portsmouth and Newcastle United Engage in Hectic Struggle; Everton Seems Headed Towards Recovery; Bradford City Finally Has String of Wins Broken; Many Surprises in Scottish League

London, Sept. 19.—Rousing games at Newcastle and Blackburn resulted in Portsmouth and West Bromwich Albion retaining their positions to-day at the head of the English Football League. Drawn games were played in each case Saturday and with Aston Villa registering a victory at home the three teams are now tied for the leadership with ten points each.

Portsmouth gave the "cupholders" a stirring struggle in which there were many hectic duels. The game opened at a gruelling pace, the Tynesiders tallying first through Allen after sixteen minutes of play. Their opponents retaliated hotly, Thackeray finally equalizing before half time. There was no further scoring.

Blackburn Bovers led, 2 to 1, at half time in their game with the Albion and midway through the second half had increased their count to four, but in a late rally the Thistles scored three times. Groves netted twice for the Bovers, Thompson and Dix scoring the others, while Olden, Carter and Wood obtained West Bromwich's goals, Carter getting two.

VILLA OUTPLAYED
Aston Villa were outplayed at the opening of the match with Leicester City, and it was against the run of the play when Brown opened the scoring for them. Later they improved playing copybook football, but Paterson equalized before half time. After resumption Walker, Houghton and Brown scored further goals, Haywood adding another for The City.

Everton, last year's champions, seemed headed towards recovery. This coincides with the return to form of Dixie Dean, whose brace of goals gave Everton victory in an exciting Lancashire struggle with Manchester City before 40,000 spectators. Tossland, opened the scoring for The City, but Dean put the teams level before the change of ends. The Everton player making the game safe from a centre by Stein shortly before the close. What Do
Parents
Owe Their Children?

Dorothy Dix

Describes Debt
to Youth

Every Child Has a Right to Be Born of Healthy Parents, to Be Well Brought Up, to Be Taught the Rules of Success in Life and, Above All, to Develop Its Own Individuality, Says Dorothy Dix

PARENTS are so busy trying to collect the debt of gratitude and love and honor and support in their old age that they consider that their children owe them that they often forget that they have any obligations to their children and that their children have a right to expect certain things of them.

Yet every child might say to its father and mother:

"I have a right to be well born of healthy parents who will give me clean blood, untainted by disease. I have a right to expect that my parents will give as much consideration to the pedigree of a dog as they would to the pedigree of a child. I have a right to expect that my parents will give me the fighting chance in life and not predestine me before I am born to failure because I inherit a weak and sickly body and jangled nerves or a poor brain.

"I have a right to be brought up in a peaceful home, where my young life will not be embittered by constant quarrels between my parents, and where my soul will not be poisoned by living in an atmosphere of hate.

"With your relation to each other I have nothing to do. You brought me into the world to please yourselves and through no volition of mine, and you owe it to me to sink your personal differences, if you have any, and provide me with an environment in which I can develop into a normal human being.

"I have a right to the two parents that God ordained that I should have. I have a right to a mother's love and tenderness and to a father's strength and wisdom and guidance.

"I have a right to a mother to hear my prayers, and a father to teach me how to avoid the pitfalls that the devil lays for me. When you take either parent from me I have only half a chance to win out in life, and so whether you are affiliates and soulmates or not, it is your obligation to me to stay together and give me the benefit of a united family circle until my vital need of it is over.

"You owe it to me to give me companionship in the formative years that determine a child's whole future. You have no right to turn me, a plastic little creature, over to servants and hirelings to form my ideals and set the pattern of my life. Nor have you the right to chuck me out on the street to find for myself like a stray kitten.

"What I will be and do in life will be practically settled before I am ten years old, and I have a right to expect that you will, at least, start my feet in the right direction, and not trust my fate to chance and luck.

"I have a right to expect you to bring me up properly. Nearly every failure in life, nearly every convict behind the bars, nearly every drunkard in the gutter, nearly every girl in a brothel, nearly all of the whining, peevish, discontented people in the world are the result of their parents having failed in their obligations to them.

"For who are the failures but the weaklings whose parents never disciplined them or developed any strength in them? Who are the murderers out there who were never taught to control their tempers when they were children? Who are the drunks but those who were permitted to indulge their appetites as children? Who are the girls of the street but, the pretty, petted, spoiled darlings who were never denied any desire, or taught to respect any law but their own sweet will? I have a right to expect you to save me from being one of these human geriatrics.

"You are wiser and older and have seen more of life than I have, and I have a right to expect you to teach me the rules of the game, how to govern myself and control my passions, because thereby alone may I achieve happiness and success.

"I have a right to expect you to teach me habits of thrift and industry because that is the road to prosperity. I have a right to expect you to teach me how to get along with people, how to dress, how to be tactful and well-mannered because the poor is always hopelessly handicapped and outclassed.

"I have a right to expect you to prepare me for life and to teach me about the dangers to which youth is exposed and to protect me against the fatal follies into which adolescence can fall. You have no right to let me wreck my life through ignorance, or through lack of warning of the dangers that beset the path I must travel.

"I have a right to your friendship. I have a right to be on such terms of confidence with you that I can open up my heart to you and tell you of my fears and doubts and perplexities and my hopes and aspirations. It is not enough for you to give me a luxurious home, fine clothes and sport cars. You have given me nothing if you have not given me yourself and an undivided of my just dues from my parents.

"Finally, I have a right in the end to my own life. Because I am your child does not make me your slave. Nor does it make me a rubber stamp of yourself. I have my own personality and individuality that may be so entirely different from yours that we have little in common.

"This being true, you have no right to pick out my occupation for me, or choose my wife or husband, or to try to hold me bound to you after am grown. Then I have the right to expect that you will be at least as free as the birds and leave me free to use my own wings.

"There are some of the debts that parents owe their children and that, alas, are often never paid. DOROTHY DIX.

Flying Around Europe

WE REACH IRELAND
Will you join in a swift trip around Europe? Banty, our pilot of days gone by, is quite willing to make the journey, and from the questions you have asked about foreign lands I feel sure that you will be interested in some more exploring.

above his little fleet while he was on his way across the Atlantic! Night comes, and with it the bright stars. Our seaplane is very fast, and at times we travel at the rate of 300 miles per hour.

In the morning we see the coast of Ireland, and have a thrilling time as we come to rest in a bay.

When we gain the shore, we are greeted by a group of Irish folk who give us a warm and friendly welcome. They guide us to an airport and there we rent an excellent land plane.

Above the Emerald Isle we skim, and it is easy to see why that name was given to Ireland, with its grand supply of trees and shrubs.

At lunch time we decide to land on a large flat field stretching beneath us. Banty makes his usual smooth landing, and we get out of the plane. Not far distant is a little group of white-washed cottages and we walk toward them. We see two pigs wandering about—no doubt they are looking for something to eat! That is a safe bet about pigs!

A man is strolling in our direction. At first he does not notice us, but we call to him, and ask him how far we must walk to reach a restaurant.

"It's two miles to the nearest town," he replies, "but you are welcome to rest a bit at my home and have a bite to eat."

COLWOOD

A well-attended meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to St. John's Church was held Wednesday afternoon in Colwood Hall. Mrs. E. P. Laycock of Victoria gave an address. The treasurer reported the silver tea and garden fete had realized substantial profits. A sum was voted to the Memorial Window Fund of Christ Church Cathedral. Mrs. H. Parker was tea hostess.

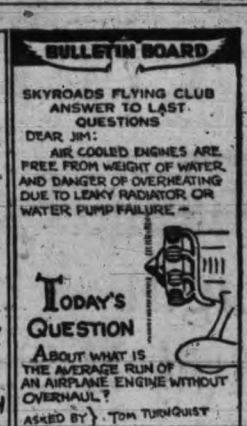

ROYAL OAK

A card party was held by the Royal Oak Women's Institute in the community hall on Thursday evening with seven tables in play. First prizes were won by Miss Hewitt and Mr. Coffey; second prizes, Miss G. Granberg and Mr. Reed; third prizes, Mrs. H. H. Reed and Mr. Phillips. Tea hostesses were Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Pinhorn and Mrs. Frouser.

An old-time dance will be held in the hall next Friday, under the auspices of the institute.
